Gas flows in Valley, but end-of-month trickle looms

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

Finding gasoline is less of an ordeal today as most Pomona Valley service station operators report they have received at least partial February allotments, but the dealers also forecast spiraling troubles later this month.

"I've got gasoline," said Otis Graham, owner of a Texaco station at Mission Boulevard and San Antonio Avenue in Pomona. "But my February allotment is only 7,600 gallons. That's enough to last me about 10 days. When it's gone I'll just close. That's all I can do."

Juan Gamboa, operator of a Chevron station at 1515 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, said today that he has 10,000 gallons of fuel on hand and predicts he will be able to make it through the month, but only because he has significantly reduced his operating hours.

Another dealer who has not been so fortunate is G. E. Smith, a Mobile operator in Chino. Out of gas for over 10 days, Smith said he is still out.

"I haven't heard anything new from the company," Smith explained. "They promised me that I would get supplied by Monday night or today. But it still hasn't arrived."

Neil Chemberlain of Norm and Sons Exxon at 350 S. Diamond Bar Blvd., Diamond Bar, said grimly that the station ran out of gasoline Monday and will be out until at least Friday.

This follows on the heels of eight days without gas during January.

"We're losing customers because of it too," Chamberlain lamented.

An Upland dealer, Charles Crossland of B and B Gulf Service at 775 W. Foothill Blvd., revealed that he has already instituted gas rationing—on himself.

"I'll only sell a certain amount each day. That way I can make my allotment last through the month," he explained.

British coal mine leaders order strike

LONDON (UPI) — Leaders of Britain' 269,000 coal miners today ordered a national mines shutdown at midnight Saturday. In doing so they rejected an eleventh hour government peace appeal and warnings the shutdown would bring economic disaster.

Mine workers President Joe Gormley said he and other union officials were meeting later today with Len Murray, general secretary of the 10 million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), "to put him in the picture."

He said the mineworkers would seek cooperation from leaders of the transport, railroad, electrical and power workers unions.

Britain depends on coal for 70 per cent of its energy, and months long slowdowns by miners and railroad workers already have put the country on a three-day work week. A complete coal shutdown could bring British industry to its knees and make millions jobless.

"The strike vote (by the coal miners 27-man executive) was unanimous," Gormley said. "Following it, the executive sent out strike orders to all union branches and set up a national strike committee."

The decision was reached at a 3 ½ hour meeting of the executive at the union's London headquarters.

Gormley said the union also has decided to start a strike fund "for the purpose of ensuring there is enough cash to pay for the cost of the strike."

CIM's Griggs stricken by heart attack

CHINO — Supt. Bertram Griggs of the California Institution for Men today was listed in serious condition following a heart attack Monday.

He was taken to a local hospital and admitted to the intensive care unit. Doctors said it would take several days to assess the damage.

Griggs, who has served as prison chief since July 1971, was returning to his office Monday afternoon when he suffered the initial attack, reported Earl Muff, administrative assistant.

He rested in his car for a while before driving on to the prison. After arriving at his office, medical personnel at the prison ran some tests and determined that he had suffered a heart attack.

Griggs, 52, was then transported by ambulance to a nearby hospital. The superintendent, who is allowed no visitors, was still having some pains today, said Muff.

Nixon unveils comprehensive health package for everyone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today every American would be assured "balanced, comprehensive health care protection" at a cost they can afford under his new health insurance program.

Nixon said the plan "would finance virtually all of the health protection people need — hospital and physician's care in and out of the hospital, drugs, laboratory tests, x-rays, medical devices, ambulance service, treatment of children, catastrophic illness —and even mental illness, including alcoholism and drug abuse."

The plan would be financed through three methods, he said, and coverage under all three would be identical:

—For workers, employers would pay "the bulk of the cost of premiums" for health insurance. The precise ratio was reported still somewhat in dispute within the administration.

—Coverage for people with low incomes and those who could not purchase health insurance at a reasonable cost because of poor health or risky occupations would be subsidized, partly by the government.

—The existing Medicare program for persons over 65 would continue, with improved benefits.

"The insurance itself would be channeled through private insurance companies," Nixon said in a statement issued in conjunction with his appearance before the American Hospital Association.

"The overall result is that we would not have to add new federal taxes."

Nixon's health insurance plan is expected to be presented formally to Congress Wednesday. It has been delayed, apparently as a result of some late revisions.

One reported major change was deletion of a proposal to include as part of individuals' taxable income the amount of money paid on their behalf by employers into health insurance plans. This would have raised an estimated $3.8 million of new revenue.

Administrators representing almost all the nation's 7,000 hospitals received Nixon's advance outline of his proposals.

Daughter of Hearst kidnaped

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The 19-year-old daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst was kidnaped from her apartment Monday night by two men who fired shots at neighbors as they drove away, police said.

Patricia Hearst, a sophomore at the University of California in Berkeley, was dragged screaming from her duplex apartment in the Berkeley hills and dumped into the trunk of her kidnapers' car. Police said the two suspects were black.

Officers said Miss Hearst was in the apartment with her fiance, Steven Weed, 26, when the doorbell rang about 9:20 p.m. and a white female said her car had stalled and asked to use the phone.

Then, police said, the two men broke into the house, attacked Weed and a neighbor who heard the commotion, and tied both men up.

They dragged Miss Hearst outside and forced her into the trunk of a white 1963 convertible. As they drove away, followed by a station wagon, the suspects fired several shots at neighbors attracted by the screams, police said.

The car, which had been stolen in Berkeley apparently earlier in the evening, was found abandoned a half hour later about eight blocks away.

Miss Hearst is one of five daughters of Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the board of the Hearst Corp. She and Weed, a former teacher at Crystal Springs School for Girls, a private high school in Hillsborough, Calif., which she had attended, announced their engagement on Dec. 19.

Police said it appeared obvious that the kidnapers knew who Miss Hearst was.

The news media had been aware of the kidnaping since shortly after it took place, but agreed to withhold information for the time being at the request of police and Miss Hearst's parents who hoped to make contact with the kidnapers.

A family spokesman later lifted the voluntary embargo by the news media.

The kidnaping followed a recent series of incidents involving prominent persons in the San Francisco Bay area.

Last Nov. 6, Oakland Schools Superintendent Marcus Foster was shot and killed and an aide was critically wounded by two men who identified themselves as being from the "Symbionese Liberation Army." The group subsequently sent a letter saying it planned to kidnap prominent persons to finance a "war against the establishment."

Two men, both white, were arrested in connection with the Foster death, and a third, a white female, remains at large.

On Monday, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto announced that his wife had been missing for two weeks, but the mayor's office said later Monday night that she had phoned and was safe, and she returned home during the night. No further details have been released.

TEARGAS VICTIMS

Two tearful women are led to cars to be taken to hospital for checkups after suffering from fumes of a teargas cannister tossed into a 15th floor office of the 20-story IBM building Monday in Seattle. The air-conditioning system spread the fumes from the 15th to the 20th floors, forcing scores of employes to evacuate their offices. Police are seeking a male suspect, about 50.

Sheriff's 'copter saves day, rushes hip joint to hospital

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A sheriff's helicopter crew flew an artifical human body part to a hospital in Glendale Monday for use in an emergency surgery after the car of the original transporter broke down here on the Pomona Freeway.

The part arrived at Glendale Adventist Hospital in time for successful implantation in a person injured in a traffic accident.

Al Barlow, owner of Orthopaedic Equipment Co., La Habra Heights, was en route to the hospital when his car stalled at Seventh Avenue. He coasted down the off-ramp and found a sheriff's radio car. Barlow explained that the patient was being prepared for surgery at the hospital and the surgeons needed the part, a hip joint, within 30 minutes.

The helicopter was dispatched from the Temple City area and landed in a vacant lot at Seventh and Don Julian avenues in Industry. The part was put aboard and arrived in time for use at the hospital.

Barlow said today that he operates a company which supplies manufactured human body parts and specialized surgical equipment to hospitals from San Luis Obispo to Mexico. In emergency cases, such as the one Monday, he said he often has very little time in which to deliver the item needed.

He praised the sheriff's department for its prompt assistance.

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada's gambling casinos paid $79.3 million in direct taxes to federal, state and local governments during the fiscal year 1973, the State Gaming Commission said Monday.

OK now, but truck stops spreading

Grocers may feel pinch of strike soon

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI) — Supermarkets in Southern California may begin to feel the pinch by the end of the week if the shutdown of independent long-haul truckers continues to spread, truckers and food market spokesmen said Monday.

But big rigs continued to role on the major north-south highway, Interstate 5, and some protesters said their actions so far have been piecemeal and sporadic.

Major truck stops were closed down in Orange County Monday, joining several already shut in Los Angeles, Whittier, Ontario and Colton.

"The biggest worry at the moment are shipments of poultry and pork from the South and Midwest and citrus from Florida," said Food Employers Council spokesman Bob Voight.

"The supermarkets say they are okay now, but they may begin to feel this thing later in the week," he said.

"It's spreading," claimed Wade Austin, Southern California representative of Associated Independent Owner-Operators Inc., "It's becoming bigger and bigger."

Austin said the Sante Fe Springs based organization estimated that 60 to 70 of the independent truckers in Southern California had shut down as of Monday.

However, a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol (CHP) said "there was no appreciable change" in the number of rigs passing through the mandatory CHP weighing station at Newhall on Interstate 5, one of the busiest truck routes in and out of Los Angeles.

The spokesman also said that truck stops along major highways in outlying areas were open and pumping diesel fuel and that truck traffic was normal.

Striking truckers themselves indicated at a meeting Monday in Whittier that they have been unable to coordinate shutdown efforts.

"We don't even know the names of someone who is representing us in the talks with federal officials," one driver said in Whittier, "and that's where it really counts.

The 100 truckers at the meeting agreed that support for the shutdown was far from unanimous and that the large number of stops still open outside the metropolitan areas remained a big problem.

Most perishable loads carried by independents apparently have been taken over by major trucking companies not involved in the protest.

And trucker picket lines set up Monday in San Pedro, to block loading and unloading at the American President Lines operation, were canceled when Teamster Union dock workers did not honor the line. The union has not sanctioned the nationwide protest.

Despite shots fired at two Louisiana truckers in Carson Sunday night, the protest has been generally peaceful. Ten shots were fired from a 30.06 rifle at the cab of the truck but neither Wayne Davis nor Curtis L. Russell were injured.

Cardinal Mindszenty out; Pope pressured

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI today retired Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty as archbishop of Esztergom and primate of Hungary.

The move, in a papal announcement that the See of Esztergom was now vacant, removed the main source of friction between the Vatican and Communist Hungary.

The dismissal of the 81-year-old Mindszenty came just three days before the 25th anniversary of his sentencing to life imprisonment by Hungary.

The Vatican statement said the decision was reached in agreement with Mindszenty.

Hungarian exile sources had predicted the move weeks ago and said the Pope had acted under extreme pressure from the Hungarian government.

The Vatican announcement said the Pope made the decision "in consideration of the pastoral needs of the diocese of Esztergom and after an ample exchange of correspondence on the subject with Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty."

The Vatican released one papal letter to Mindszenty praising the cardinal's service to the church and likening his trial 25 years ago to the crown of thorns worn by Jesus.

Mindszenty fled to the U.S. Embassy in Budapest during the 1956 aborted Hungarian uprising and spent 15 years there before bowing to a personal appeal from Pope Paul VI and leaving for a life of exile outside Hungary.

In declaring the Esztergom archbishopric vacant, the Pope appointed Msgr. Laszlo Lekai as its apostolic administrator, directly responsible to the Holy See.

The Pope also appointed Msgr. Laszlo Kadar to succeed Lekai as apostolic administrator of another vacant see—the diocese of Veszprem. He also appointed two new bishops— Msgr. Jozsef Bank as bishop of Eger and Msgr. Imre Kisberk as bishop of Szekesfehervar.

When he agreed to end his asylum in the U.S. Embassy in 1971, Minszenty wrote the Pope that he did so only at the Pope's personal appeal. He said accepting exile out of Hungary was "the heaviest cross of my life."

Upon his arrival in Rome, Mindszenty was guest of the Pope and the pontiff placed the Cardinal at his right hand and the two concelebrated mass at the Sistine Chapel. At the end, the Pope and Mindszenty wept, embraced and exchanged the kiss of peace.

GROMYKO AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called on President Nixon Monday. During the picture-taking session, the two chatted in English and discussed Napoleon's disastrous campaign in Russia.

Schlesinger defends Nixon's proposed defense spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger told Congress today the United States has "overshot the mark" in reducing its military strength in the past and the armed forces are now smaller than they were before the Vietnam buildup.

Schlesinger, accompanied by Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified on the nation's defense posture at a hearing by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He defended President Nixon's budget request of $85.8 billion for military spending which drew criticism by the committee chairman Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss. Stennis said the proposals would "require a most stringent review."

Schlesinger noted that the administration faces pressures to cut down on its strategic and nuclear forces as well as reducing overseas troop commitments.

"Despite these pressures, I believe that we have already overshot the mark in previous reductions," he declared. "We must continue to build our peace structure on the hard facts of the international environment rather than gossamer hopes for the imminent perfectability of mankind," Schlesinger added.

In spite of agreements with Moscow and the opening of relations with Peking, he said, "the military capabilities of those nations in a position to threaten our interest have not declined, they have increased."

In his opening statement, Schlesinger said that the higher Pentagon budget advocated by Nixon resulted not only because of inflationary costs but also from a "decline in the U.S. defense posture."

End Cuban blockade, Russ demand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko so far has not discussed U.S. relations with Cuba during his visit here despite Soviet public demands the Western political and economic blockade of Cuba be ended, according to State Department officials.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, scheduled to confer with Gromyko a second time today, told newsmen Cuba was not discussed during their two and one half hour meeting Monday. Other officials said they discussed European problems and the Middle East.

"There were several other subjects," Kissinger said when asked why Cuba had not been discussed. Gromyko came here late Sunday from Havana, where he had accompanied Soviet Communist party chief Leonid A. Brezhnev on an official visit.

The fact that Gromyko came here direct from Havana touched off speculation the Soviets might play an intermediary role to thaw relations between the United States and Cuba.

As Gromyko met with Kissinger and later President Nixon, the Soviet and Cuban governments released a joint communique demanding the Western political and economic blockade of Cuba be ended and that the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo be closed.

Four slain in shootout at Black Muslim mosque

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gunmen burst into a Black Muslim mosque in Brooklyn Monday night and opened fire, killing the leader of the sect, police said. Four persons, including both intruders, died in the shootout.

Bilal Abdullah Rahman, minister of the Yasin Mosque, was the target of the attack in what seemed to be an internal dispute. He died of multiple wounds in the foyer of the crumbling brick building on the border of the seamy Bedford Stuveysant section.

His followers raced from the top floors of the building and returned the fire, killing the gunmen, whose names were not released. The fourth victim was identified as Mohamed Ahmed. A fifth Muslim, known as Jamil Haqq, was in critical condition at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

"I opened the front door and there were just bodies sprawled out everywhere," said Officer Mike DiDonna of the Utica Avenue Stationhouse. "Blood all over the walls and the floor. The people in the mosque just stood there. They showed no emotion, they wouldn't say anything. God, I just couldn't believe it."

Police said two gunmen, armed with pistols, rang the buzzer at the mosque and were admitted about 10:30 p.m. About 30 minutes later an anonymonous caller notified police.

Assistant Police Chief William Sullivan said, "We really aren't sure how many there were. No one's talking." Detectives said police found a .22-caliber revolver, a rifle, an automatic pistol and a shotgun inside the mosque. Another handgun was found outside in a trashcan.

There were also some 9mm shells lying around the room, and since detectives could find no weapon to match the shells, they speculated at least one gunman may have escaped the carnage.

The shooting, Sullivan said, "was apparently a factional dispute between rival Muslim factions." The Yasin mosque was affiliated with the Sunni Moslems, a predominantly black organization.

In another incident of bloody inter-Muslim feuding, seven members of the rival Hanafi sect were killed at the Washington, D.C., home of professional basketball player Kareem Abdul Jabar in January, 1973.

After the shooting, nine Muslims who had been on the second floor of the building walked out in single file and refused to answer any questions. But a member of the sect who would identify himself only as Ewari said: "This is our business, nobody else's business. It happened inside and it will be discussed inside. We have nothing to say to anyone."

Rahman, the slain minister of the sect, won a police department citation last year for his part in developing lines of communication between officials and four heavily armed Black Muslims who holed up for 47 hours in a sporting goods store with nine hostages before surrendering.

Truckers asking police for protective escorts

ONTARIO — Ontario police reported this morning that they are receiving requests from trucking companies to escort their drivers and trucks out of the Union 76 truck stop here as independent truckers protesting the high cost of diesel fuel are putting more pressure on the other drivers to join in the nationwide trucking shutdown.

This morning police were dispatched to the truck stop at Milliken Avenue and the San Bernardino Freeway to escort a tractor trailer rig being held up by protesters. The truck is loaded with 30,000 pounds of frozen shrimp bound for San Diego.

Lt. Lou Franks of the Ontario Police Department said the escort request came from the Walter Holm Co. of San Diego which said the driver was afraid to move his load. Franks said officers expected no difficulty in escorting the rig.

Monday, truck driver Allan Cook from Hilldale, Utah, driving a truck for an Arizona supply firm reported that he refused to stop and join the protesters and the tires of his tractor were slashed.

German police raid anarchist hideouts

BERLIN (UPI) — Police armed with submachine guns today raided suspected hideouts of the Baader-Meinhof gang, a left-wing anarchist group which has threatened a rocket attack on the East-West German World Cup soccer match in June.

Similar raids were carried out on Monday in Frankfurt and Hamburg.

Police officials said 65 officers wearing bullet-proof vests searched nine apartments in various parts of West Berlin. Several persons were detained for identity checks.

Police arrested 15 suspects in the raids Monday, and seized an arsenal that included machine guns, land mines, hand grenades and tear gas.

Butz cites potential cost of truck strike

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The truckers strike will cost the American economy tens of millions of dollars, perhaps hundreds of millions of dollars, within one week, according to Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

"The loss to date would not be great," Butz said Monday. "But it will pyramid very, very rapidly if we don't get this thing settled and get these products moving promptly.

"If we don't get this thing settled in a week, the loss will easily run into tens of millions of dollars if not hundreds of millions of dollars.

"The real loss will be for consumers, indeed for the families of truckers themselves, that aren't able to find the products they normally expect on the shelves of the supermarkets of America."

The Soviet Union's guiding hand

Cuba's revolution-export days over

MOSCOW (UPI) — The days when revolution was a major Cuban export appear to be over.

Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, who returned this week from Havana, gave what sounded like a funeral oration for Cuban adventurism when he said in a speech Communists are not supporters of the "export of revolution."

The beard, boots and baggy combat fatigues of Premier Fidel Castro may still represent the offical guerrilla image of the Cuban revolution, but they are now an anachronism.

Cuban power rests not on its abilities or pretentions to spread a bargain-basement revolution among the peasantry, but upon the mightiest armed forces in Latin America —all supplied and paid for by the Soviet Union.

Castro has said, "The Soviet Union has given us these wonderful weapons, and at no cost." But the Soviets have not relinquished control on their use. Western diplomats say Soviet advisers are serving down to battalion level in the Cuban army and the Russians have virtually taken over Castro's secret police apparatus, modeling it on their own KGB.

The Cuban attempt to spread revolutions throughout Latin America used to be the bitterest bone of contention between Moscow and Havana.

But when Ernesto "Che" Guevara failed in 1967 to start a "New Vietnam" in the jungles of Bolivia, the Cuban thesis collapsed.

In the following year, the Soviet Union choked off supplies of oil and other vital commodities, bringing Cuba so quickly to heel that by the end of the year Castro was publicly supporting the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Moscow's thinking appears to be that one expensive island showcase for communism is better than ragged revolutions throughout Latin America which would peopardize East-West detente.

So far Cuba, with less than nine million people, has cost the Soviet Union $3 to $5 billion. The Soviets perhaps have realized they cannot afford to sustain any other revolutions like Cuba's.

"A revolution matures on the domestic soil of this or that country," Brezhnev said. "And how and when it breaks out, what forms and methods may be used in this revolution—are all a matter for the people of a given country to decide."

'Sissy' will run for nomination

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who came close to winning the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas in 1972, Monday said she would try again.

Mrs. Farenthold, of Houston, remained undecided through the final filing day Monday. She called her campaign manager only two hours before the deadline to tell him to sign her up.

Mrs. Farenthold still has a $40,000 debt from her unsuccessful primary race in 1972— one reason she hesitated to run again. She will oppose Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Steve Alexander, an advertising man from Waco.

In 1972, Mrs. Farenthold outpolled then-Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes but lost to Briscoe in the primary runoff. Briscoe was then elected governor. She later ran a strong second to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Clean up movies, Reagan urges

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, a former movie actor, says Hollywood should "clean house" and get rid of X-rated movies.

During a question-and-answer session Monday with Sacramento high school students, Reagan said he was "very disgusted with what has happened to Hollywood and what they've done. I think they've broken their faith with the people and I think they should clean house.

"Frankly, I just don't think X-rated pictures should be made," he added.

Later, when asked by newsmen, Reagan said he had never seen an X-rated picture.

She'll seek help in Russian romance

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Charlotte Daigle says she doesn't plan to let any Soviet officials stand between her and her love for Boris Mukharvetshin.

She'll fly to Washington Tuesday to try to catch the ear of the Soviet Ambassador to ask why she couldn't get back into Russia to wed her Moscow finance. The 31-year-old former Peace Corps volunteer confronted the Russian Consul, Alexander Zinchuck, with her dilemma in San Francisco Sunday.

He later described her as a "publicity seeker."

Miss Daigle met Mukhametshin while visiting Russia six years ago. She saw him again last year and they planned to be married, but she was ordered to leave the country and has been unable to gain reentry.

Korchnoi, Mecking draw in 9th game

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Victor Korchnoi of the Soviet Union and Henrique Mecking of Brazil agreed to a draw Monday night in the ninth game of their World Chess Championship quarterfinal match.

The draw was the seventh of the series. Korchnoi won the other two games, and needs one more win to advance to the semifinals.

The game lasted 11 hours and 37 minutes and spanned three evenings from Saturday to Monday. Korchnoi had a bishop advantage going into Monday night's play, but observers said his only hope for victory was a blunder on Mecking's part.

New store is host to civic leaders

MONTCLAIR — Civic leaders attending a preview breakfast today in the big new Montgomery Ward retail store which opens in the Montclair Plaza Wednesday heard the manager, Richard Gorow, predict that his store would become No. 1 among the stores in the firm's Los Angeles Metropolitan District.

All of the district's 14 store managers attended the breakfast, held in the store's 125-seat restaurant, with Robert M. Elliott, Ward's western region vice president, and William D. Davis, district manager, as co-hosts.

Gorow said that the new store would top all of the other 13 stores in the district in sales volume "through professionalism on the part of a sales staff committed to meeting the needs of consumers in the Pomona Valley." The store is opening with a staff of some 400 people.

"We aim to give prompt, courteous service and live up to the company creed of satisfaction guaranteed," said Gorow.

Gorow's sentiment was echoed by Vice President Elliott who stated that Ward's "prime function is to see that the customer gets the best merchandise at the best price."

Davis said that the reason that Wards was the leader nationally in retail sales gain last year was that the company has a game plan of "enthusiasm, action, demonstration, and positive direction."

Gorow presented Mayor Harold Hayes with a framed replica of Wards' first catalog printed in 1872. Hayes presented Wards' officials with the store's business license.

Attending the brekfast were Ernest W. Hahn, developer of the Plaza; Jack Burgess, manager of Ward's real estate department for the western region; Mrs. Barbara DeVoss, manager of the Plaza; Fred Giersch, general merchandise manager for Ward's; John Conley, president of the Montclair Chamber of Commerce; and J. Smith of the architectural firm of Charles Kober & Associates.

Other Ward's officials present included Dana Johnson, project engineer; Jack Kelly, corporate systems; Bob Turner, regional engineering manager; and Bob Wood, layout supervisor.

Death of man under truck held accidental

ONTARIO — The San Bernardino County Coroner's Office is still trying to identify a man who was run over by a semi-tractor trailer truck early Monday morning in the 1060 block of Flora Street, but Ontario police have determined his death was "accidental."

The man described as a Caucasian, about 25, 200 pounds wearing blue jeans and a blue denim shirt, was found lying in the street about 2:30 a.m.

The man, pronounced dead at the scene, had no identification. A pair of tennis shoes, believed to be the victim's, was found at the rear of the Cactus Bar about 75 yards away.

Police said today several patrons of the bar indicated that just prior to the man's death he had been drinking heavily. One patron said that the man was very intoxicated and had difficulty leaving the bar.

The patron told police that the man had taken his shoes off while he was in the bar and had difficulty putting them on. The patron said he tried to help, but finally gave up. The man walked away barefooted.

Police said the man had apparently walked to the back of the Alpha Beta Market and fallen off the loading dock onto the semi-tractor trailer rig parked in a loading pit. Officer Bill Sommers said this morning that they were unable to determine where the man had originally fallen, but it appeared as though he got stuck under or between the trailers and passed out.

When the truck, driven by Edward Sevillano, 41, of Norwalk, left the loading dock the man was dragged under the truck carriage and under the rear trailer's left inner dual wheel.

Sevillano, according to police, was completely unaware that his truck had run over the man, until officers located him later at another market where he was making a delivery.

TRUCKERS' TENSION — "It's the guy I can't see waiting on an overpass with stones or along the road with a gun that worries me," says Charles Mooney, left. Jack Oswald, center, is afraid to cram his 340-pound frame into his truck because of the current violence and friction among truck drivers.

'What are we gonna do, our kids have to eat,' say rolling truckers

DALLAS (UPI) — The independent truckers still hauling poultry to the West Coast, steel pipe to the Deep South and carrying produce into Texas, are not defying the nationwide boycott because they want to. Their families still must eat.

Truckers passing through Dallas despite violence and threats all along their routes say they agree with the demands of the boycotters but have to keey their trucks moving to make their payments and keep food on their families' table.

Its a decision they say will keep truckers divided for months.

Charles Mooney of Lufkin, Tex., stocky, deep voiced and carrying two days growth of beard, held out his quivering hand.

"See that, just nerves," he said. "I came in here last night about 9 o'clock. Now, ordinarily I'd stop out there somewhere and get a nap in the sleeper. But not now; who's going to lay down out there not knowing what's going to happen to the truck?

"I can't pay for my rig if I let it sit, but I can't pay for it in normal times either. What are you going to do. These guys not running, they have kids too, I know that, but their kids got to eat too. Maybe they're just not as concerned about their kids; hell, maybe they're more concerned."

"I don't know. That's up to each individual. He does what he thinks he has to do and I do what I think I have to do."

Jack Oswald of Longview, Tex., just arrived from a three day trip carrying lettuce to Texas from California (he carried chickens on the trip to the West Coast), said bottles were dropped from overpasses in Arizona onto a truck he was teamed with. Wayne Hammons of Jacksonville, Tex., made the same trip, and said his life was threatened at a rest area near El Paso.

Don Spradlin of Oklahoma City was just heading for Virginia with a load of steel and thought the truckers were all going broke because of themselves.

"Some of the (boycotting) truckers don't have any family, any ties," Oswald said. "They don't care whether they're sitting still or running. We got to run. If we don't make that trip, our kids aren't going to eat."

Mooney said the boycotters were likely men working on wages for a company.

"They got nothing to lose shutting it down," he said. "I got tied up in Ohio the last time. The people doing it weren't the ones that owned their rigs. They sit out there and they're drawing five dollars an hour and I sit there and I'm losing seventy to a hundred dollars a day."

Hammons said his current trip was the last until the boycott ends.

"I ain't going out again," he said. "I'm going home. There was two guys stopped me out of El Paso, in a rest stop, and told me I couldn't move out of there. I told them I was going out of there—dead if I had to, but I was going.

"I don't think I could go out if I wanted to. Theres diesel just where you can find it. They got to get this settled, and it's not going to get settled down here in Texas. It's got to be in Washington."

"I think we're all going broke slow,' Spradlin said. "All these guys still out there driving are doing it because they have to. They don't want to.

"I borrowed $2,000 from the bank some weeks ago, and now I've got to run my truck. I'll take this (steel pipe) on into Virginia, and maybe then I can just park it. We're up against some greedy people.

"They didn't put this truck stop out here for my convenience. They're out here to make money, and at 50 cents a gallon for diesel, they're making money."

Mooney and Oswald said the effects of the boycott will last months.

"I'd like to get in my rig and head for Lufkin and park it," Mooney said. "The other truckers will remember my rig. They'll know I kept running. Maybe months from now one guy will see me and ask me why I didn't shut down. There's going to be some grudges. You just can't go to bed and wake up and forget about this."

Mariner to begin TV show of Venus today

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — With 107 million troubled miles behind it, Mariner 10 accelerated to top speed to begin televising Venus today as it swings around the cloudwrapped planet and barrels on toward Mercury.

The first picture of what is scheduled to be a 17-day photographic mission was to be received at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here at 1:01 p.m. EDT.

Mariner was to beam about 1,200 pictures back to Earth by midnight tonight, starting from its closest approach to Venus, 3,600 miles.

Under the pull of Venusian gravity, the 1,108-pound craft, which has been cruising through space since it was launched Nov. 3, will accelerate to 24,658 miles per hour at the point of closest approach.

As it passes that point, the planet's gravity will begin to drag on it, slowing it down so that the gravitation of the sun can bend its flight path inward to intercept Mercury.

Mariner 10 has been afflicted by a series of problems, mostly minor, including failure of the camera heaters—which later recovered as mysteriously as they failed—an unexplained switch to the backup power system and a faulty camera scan platform.

The plans called for Mariner 10 to transmit back to Earth 3,712 pictures from its two cameras—one with a wide angle lens, the other for closeups—over the next 16 days as it speeds away. It is also equipped to test the Venusian atmosphere with infrared, ultraviolet, radio, plasma and magnetic instruments.

Because of its thick cloud cover, Venus was once thought to have a steamy, humid climate like that of Earth's tropical rain forests. But radio astronomers and Russian and American robot space explorers established that the Venusian atmosphere is far too hot, and under too great pressure, for the planet to have any resemblance to Earth, or to support life.

The atmosphere is apparently mostly carbon dioxide, with pressures up to 90 times that of Earth and temperatures up to 900 degrees fahrenheit.

Translators required by new measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department today endorsed a bill that would require federal courts to provide translators for criminal defendants who cannot understand English.

Assistant Attorney General J. Stanley Pottinger told a Senate judiciary subcommittee that being able to understand a trial proceeding "may well be an implied" constitutional right on a par with the right to have a trial.

The subcommittee reopened a second on the bill introduced by Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif. It would require full translations of criminal trials for the defendants and also authorize translations in certain civil cases.

Two boys arrested in stomping fatality

PASADENA (UPI) — Two boys were arrested Monday for allegedly stomping to death Jamie Freeman, 16, New Year's Day while he was in his sleeping bag in his camper waiting for the Rose Parade.

The juveniles, from El Monte, were taken into custody after 30 witnesses were questioned, police said.

L.V. council stalls plan for condominium rentals

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — A condominium developer received bad news from the La Verne City Council Monday night. The council temporarily stalled the firm's plans to rent more than 40 units in its development and was given two weeks to try to sell the units.

The City Council voted to hold up utility releases for the project after about 35 residents, who are members of the homeowners associations for two earlier phases of the development, came to the meeting to protest the rental policy that McKeon Construction is attempting to establish.

The council gave the developer two weeks to take some action toward opening an office at the site for the purpose of selling the new units located at White Avenue, east of Los Flores Park.

Residents testified that they purchased their condominium properties and that the new rental policy of the developer violated bylaws of their purchase agreement.

City Councilman Harrison Sanborn instructed the city staff to go over the bylaws agreement "line by line" and to report back to the council in two weeks.

City Atty. Eugene Axelrod advised the City Council that it was up to the homeowners association to "pursue remedies" to find a solution to the problem, indicating that the association could sue the developer. Axelrod said there was no violation or breech of representation by the developer.

Roger Wilson, spokesman for the homeowners, told the council that members had been unable to obtain information on how one could purchase units in the third phase. He said the company's new rental policy was of concern not only to residents but to other homeowners on the other side of White Avenue.

James Hayslip, another resident, said he was told by the company that the property was for sale only. Now McKeon puts up a sign that says units are for rent and pets and children are welcome," he said.

Larry Ells, construction administrator for McKeon Construction, told the council that his firm is actively attempting to sell the condominiums in the third phase. "However, because of the high interest rates, sales have been very slow." He said his firm planned to rent the units only on an interim basis and that his salesmen would continue to try to sell the units.

By renting the units, he said his firm would be able to make the interest and tax carry on its loans for the project. He also said occupancy of the units would prevent vandalism and deteriation.

Ells said he was hopeful that as the interest rates come down or stabilize, sales will increase and the project can be completely sold out.

Questioned by Councilman Sanborn, Elis said the present policy is that persons interested in purchasing a unit, are told to call the office in Newport Beach.

Sanborn and Mayor Mike Morales both said they had visited the rental office for the development and were told that the units were for rent and not for sale.

"I don't like it and I won't go for it," Sanborn said. He said La Verne had the best real estate turnover in the valley and said there is no reason why the units can't be sold.

Police retirement system is topic

UPLAND — Members of the Citizens Committee for Improved Police Retirement will hold a public meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers to acquaint voters with the proposed police retirement program on the March 5 municipal election ballot.

An informal panel discussion will be held by members of the committee and police department representatives to answer questions concerning the improved retirement system.

In addition to the forum Wednesday, supporters of the measure will provide a mobile information center that will tour major shopping centers prior to election to inform voters of the measure.

Supporters of the program believe the new retirement system is needed to attract, train and retain competent police officers as the present system does not adequately compensate them for long years of service.

End of boycott could stop month-end gas shortage?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Only an end to the Arab oil boycott will keep gasoline flowing through the pumps during end-of-the month service station shortages, a group of Shell Oil Co. officials said Monday.

The group warned that motorists can expect gasoline shortages in late February to be even more severe than it was last weekend.

Shell Oil expects the supply of gasoline produced by its refineries west of the Rocky Mountains to be down about 14 per cent in February.

"We try to make deliveries at an even rate throughout the month, but inevitably more gasoline gets sold at the beginning of the month than the end," said D. B. Richardson, an official in charge of marketing fuel products.

Richardson predicted that renewed shipments of Middle East oil after an end to the boycott would increase the current available amount by one-tenth-enough to stop the end-of-the-month shortages but not enough to negate the need for conservation.

The Shell officials told interviewers that the fuel cutbacks were not severely hurting company dealers, as commonly believed.

"As of January 31, we think dealers were operating at all-time high margins of 10 cents a gallon (over wholesale costs)," said George S. Ukuchek, Shell's western transportation manager.

Harris poll shows gloom

Recession, Americans say

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Louis Harris poll Monday said a majority of Americans it surveyed believe the country is in a recession, and they don't see things getting any better in a year.

"The key to this public estimate about the economy is the widespread perception that inflation is continuing unabated and unemployment is on the increase," Harris said, noting that the number who said unemployment has risen in their immediate area jumped from 22 per cent to 44 per cent since last November.

The polling sample, 1,494 families across the nation, was asked last month, "Do you feel the country is in a recession today or not?" Harris said 54 per cent answered that it is, 32 per cent said it was not, and 14 per cent were not sure. The last time a majority said there was a recession on was in a sample taken in November, 1971, Harris said.

"Despite this overall sense of gloom about the state of the economy, there are signs that individuals and families are not cutting back on their buying of products and services," Harris said. "The main impetus to consumer purchasing in this period is the decision to buy now 'because the price may be higher later on'...If this happens, then the current recession could well be shallow rather than deep."

Asked if they would make large-scale purchases in the next six months, 6 per cent of the cross-section families said they certainly would, for example, buy new furniture, compared with 4 per cent in September, 1973. Twenty per cent said they probably would, compared with 15 per cent in 1973, and 74 per cent said they would not, compared with 77 per cent. There were no not sure answers, compared to 4 per cent in 1973.

Asked if they believed there would be a recession a year from now, 61 per cent said there would be, 18 said there would not, and 21 per cent said they were not sure.

Too difficult for ordinary

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The reason club systems are too difficult for ordinary players lies in the problem of what to do when your suit is clubs. Of course you can open two clubs to show a normal one club opening, but experience has shown that this is inadvisable when your hand is of minimum type.

Opening lead—♠ Q

Believe it or not, we watched a pair of expert club bidders pass this hand out in a duplicate game. Another pair did even worse. South passed; North opened one heart. Eventually, he played at four hearts and managed to find a way to get set after East opened the king of diamonds.

Standard bidders all wound up in clubs. Some stopped at a part score; others bid to game. Barry Carne of Los Angeles. the number one man on the master-point list, reached six clubs playing with Dr. John Fisher of Dallas.

The slam depended on locating the queen of hearts. As you can see Barry could finesse for it either way. Experts expect to handle a two-way finesse correctly most of the time and Barry is one of the best in this department.

He could not be certain, but he did find out that East was long in hearts. Hence he was more likely to hold the queen. Barry finessed successfully against him and made the slam.

Untangling her kisses

By JEAN ADAMS

KISSES: (Q.) This girl and I have been going out for a month now and we seem to be getting along just fine. I like her and she is really nice to be with.

The only thing that I dislike about her is the way she kisses. Her kisses are unexplainable. How do I tell her about this? Or do I just leave it alone and hope she will change? — Hesitant in Ohio.

(A.) It's best to be open and honest. You can only correct your problems if you discuss them and do SOMETHING about them. Sweeping any misunderstanding under the carpet will not make it go away. So deal with your kiss trouble now.

Just say to her, "Let's talk about kissing." And then start talking about it. But do it BEFORE you kiss her, not after. Then, as you talk, you can work on the problem.

TOO CLOSE: (Q.) My friend is quite different from me and other girls our age. She expresses her feelings strangely. She walks very close to me and sometimes holds my hand. When she got a B plus on her science test she kissed and hugged me.

I get so embarrassed. I don't like hanging around with her. What should I do? — 14 in New York.

(A.) She's probably just friendly and affectionate. Many girls, and grown women too, are like this. However, if you don't like her style, then find someone else to chum around with.

Valley agency urged to deal with abandoned homes

POMONA — Cities in the Pomona Valley and West End which in the past have banded together on issues of common concern should go a step further and formally organize to deal more effectively with abandoned housing and other problems, says a report released Monday.

The report and its recommendations on abandoned housing will be submitted for adoption Wednesday at a meeting of the Greater Pomona Valley Mayors' Action Committee on Abandoned Housing.

The meeting will be held at the Colony Park recreation building in Ontario starting at 3 p.m.

The committee includes municipal representatives from the cities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Walnut, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

Recommendations call for:

—Establishment of a Valley Association of Cities (VAC), with federal and state grant programs to be explored as a means to pay for staffing and office space.

—An "adjustment upward in the no-down or little-money-down policy of the federal geovernment" on home purchasing, and tighter credit qualifications.

—Implementation of programs for housing maintenance, reduced vandalism and early warning systems to spot potentially deteriorating conditions in neighborhoods and abandonments before they happen.

—Home ownership counseling for purchasers of homes under programs subsidized by the federal government.

—Resale of abaondoned houses on an individual and bulk sales basis and through the National Urban Homesteading program introduced in Congress.

—Experimentation by cities with abandoned house properties in the development of greenbelt areas, community centers and mini-parks.

—Establishment of one property management broker office to service the cities in both counties.

According to the report, there are 991 abandoned houses in eight of the nine cities with most of them owned by the federal government. The breakdown is Pomona, 823; Ontario, 50; Montclair, 45; Claremont, 30; San Dimas, 28; Walnut, 7; Chino, 5; Upland, 3; and La Verne, none.

The report was compiled by Claremont Planning Director Sharon Hightower, Pomona Asst. City Administrator Joseph Korpsak and Pomona housing coordinator Maggie O'Donnell based on committee meetings that have taken place since last September.

In a preface to the report, Pomona Councilman Charles W. Bader, chairman, said:

"It is my feeling, and I believe the consensus of the committee, that the primary causes of this problem are the subsidized housing programs of HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) which enable an individual to obtain a house with no down payment and subsidized monthly payments."

"Additionally, HUD has been very slow in preparing a house for resale after its abandonment, resulting in a large inventory of such houses."

According to the report, an initial main responsibility of VAC would be to work to implement the committee's recommendations.

"This proposed valley solution should not be construed to be in conflict with the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) or the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG), which are regional planning agencies and countywide in scope," the report says.

The recommendation for the formation of VAC, the report continues, "is to permit intergovernmental cooperation, solving of valley problems, retention of the municipal affairs power of each participating city, and to have the hard cash costs connected with this association effort financed through available state and federal grants."

The committee was started at the urging last July of the Pomona City Council.

City plans improvements for civic center, library

POMONA — The City Council Monday called for bids on planned additions and alterations at the Pomona Public Library, Council Chambers and Civic Center Plaza estimated to cost more than $133,000.

Citing a lack of funds on hand to pay for the project, the council at the same time served public notice it was reserving the right to reject bids or portions of them.

The project would include:

—Enlargement of the library's public conference room, audio visual and special collections divisions at an estimated cost of $83,000.

—Installation of ramps for the physically handicapped at the library and council chambers at an estimated cost of $24,200.

—Installation of walkways connecting different plaza levels at an estimated cost of $2,900.

—Installation of an improved public address system at the library at an estimated cost of $23,400.

The work previously was approved but there have been several delays because of the costs involved.

Housewife first to file in April 16 council race

POMONA — A housewife Monday became the first official candidate in the special municipal election April 16 for the unexpired term of councilman from the 1st District.

Mrs. Georgia Grove, 1785 Yorba Drive, filed her papers with the city clerk's office. Three others have taken out nomination papers.

"I plan to be a working councilman, and as in the past, will continue to listen and work with the people and for the people," Mrs. Grove said in delcaring her candidacy.

"I know I can effectively do my part in maintaining a balanced city, while at the same time insuring that all services that are provided by the city are being done in the most efficient and economical way."

Mrs. Grove, who has resided in Pomona for 13 years, said that for some time she has been concerned for the welfare of the city and its citizens and believes her past involvement in community activities gives her an insight into the most pressing problems.

"Most important, I believe I can work effectively with the present council members," she said.

Mrs. Grove and her husband, Marvin, an insurance man, have two daughters, one living at home and attending Mt. San Antonio College. The other is married and lives in Alta Loma.

MRS. GEORGIA GROVE

Mrs. Grove has been a volunteer worker with the American Cancer Society for eight years, served on election boards for 10 years, is a member of the Ebell Club and is currently working with the Meals on Wheels program.

Pomona crash injures cyclist

POMONA — A motorcyclist was injured slightly Monday afternoon when his altered machine fell with him and overturned several times in Holt Avenue west of Reservoir Street, police reported.

The cyclist, Richard E. Carby, 23, 1232 Woodbury Court, Upland, said he'd see a doctor later if necessary.

Police said Carby was westbound in Holt when a pin fell from the front end of the motorcycle, causing the vehicle to fall. The motorcycle's front end had been altered, with the wheel extended further ahead, police said.

Earlier, three boys apparently escaped injury when a car they were in hit a tree at Royal Coach Avenue east of Castle Place.

Police said the three, about 13, fled after the accident. The car, which had minor damage, was believed to have been stolen a few minutes earlier.

Witnesses said the auto had been around the block several times when the driver failed to straighten out while making a turn and hit the tree.

VFW commander is chairman of flags committee

POMONA — Fred Klein, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2018, has been elected chairman of the Avenue of Flags Committee.

The committee is made of representatives from various organizations working on plans for the display of the American flag on three major city streets during national and state holidays.

Klein said the committee is looking into fund-raising efforts to purchase the flags, which would be flown from light standards on Mission Boulevard from Hamilton Boulevard to Reservior Street, on Garey Avenue from the San Bernardino Freeway to Phillips Boulevard, and on Holt Avenue from Weber Street to Mills Avenue.

The proposal has received the endorsement of the Pomona Planning Commission and Mayor Ray J. Lepire.

Klein said the committee is hopeful of having the first such display of flags ready the first week in May. Initial cost of the prposal has been estimated at $8,000 to $10,000.

Harriet Harrison was elected vice chairman of the committee and Mary Glenn was named secretary and acting treasurer.

Lawyer wins insurance suit and right to alter ad claims

CLAREMONT — Attorney William Shernoff has won a unique settlement from the Pennsylvania Life Insurance Co. — target of a multi-million dollar class action filed last year in which Shernoff charged the company with consumer fraud and deceit.

The suit was a spin-off of a judgment won last year by Shernoff against the same company in behalf of a former Chino man. The award, for $325,000, was the result of a suit charging the company with reneging on an income disability policy he had purchased. The trial was in Ontario Superior Court and lasted six days. At its close, the jury awarded Odis Drake, 57, $325,000, of which $250,000 were punitive damages.

The class action suit was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court in behalf of three persons who had purchased, according to the complaint, lifetime disability insurance income plans. It was one of several class actions filed across the country against insurance companies, especially those featuring disability policies, during 1973.

The agreements won by Shernoff were:

— Agreement of the company to set aside a $250,000 reserve to compensate policyholders whose insurance might have been unfairly canceled in the three years before the filing of the law suit. A special master will administer the fund.

— An agreement by the company to allow policyholders to convert their present policies to more expensive but renewable policies, with the company waiving the premiums for the first three months. The waiver will cost the company $1 million.

— An agreement by the company to pay Shernoff's legal fees, as decided upon by the court, and its permission to allow the attorney to edit its sales literature. Already Shernoff has said he plans to have the word "lifetime" deleted from company literature.

Also included in the agreement was the statement that the company "was completely innocent of any wrongdoing."

The class suit action originally asked for damages of $115 million.

Estimates were that insurance companies offering such disability policies across the country collected premiums of $3.4 billion during 1973.

New life for ailing railroads

New life, or at least the hope of it, was breathed into the nation's railroad industry when President Nixon signed the Regional Rail Reorganization Act on January 2.

Proponents of the measure, which was based on a concept that originated with Union Pacific Corp. whose prosperous railroad operations are entirely in the West, hail it as a major turning point for rail service. One not only for the ailing lines in the Northeast but throughout the nation.

The act emphasizes a free-enterprise approach rather than the dubious alternative of nationalization.

The act emphasizes a free-enterprise approach rather than the dubious alternative of nationalization.

It will set up a non-profit federal railway entity — the United States Railway Association (USRA) — to administer $15 billion to help troubled railroads. The money is to be raised in the private sector, with the federal government guaranteeing the loans.

At the same time, a new profit-making investor-owned corporation called Consolidated Rail Corp. will be created to take over the properties of the bankrupt roads, get them in good condition and operate them.

The new law calls for trimming down to eliminate duplicating tracks and facilities and lines no longer needed. Unprofitable branch lines may be maintained with a subsidy by state or local governments willing to assume 30 per cent of the total subsidy. The other 70 per cent would come from Washington.

It should take an estimated 15 months to do the planning, another 12 months for the basic reorganization and rehabilitation of the bankrupt roads and another four years for continuing rehabilitation — track repair and modernization, new and rebuilt rolling stock and updating yards and other facilities.

Thus it is hoped that by 1980, the Northeast will be served by a major new and rehabilitated system, the Consolidated Rail Corp., in addition to those lines now operating profitably in the area. Passenger service will be provided, too, with assistance to Amtrak from the new corporation.

There is hardly any need these days to argue the importance of a healthy railroad industry. Even before the energy crisis burst upon the country, manufacturers got most of their raw materials by rail and shipped most of their finished products by rail.

A 1970 study showed that freight trains moved 86 per cent of the country's pulp and paper, 74 per cent of its canned good and 46 per cent of its meat and dairy products.

According to the Association of American Railroads, a train can carry four times as much intercity freight for the same amount of energy as a truck would require, and can do it with only one-third the air pollution per ton-mile that would be caused by a truck.

Peking knocks no-class classics

A kind of mini-Cultural Revolution seems to be going on in China, with the regime counter-attacking some of the dangerous ideas slipping through the openings made to the West in the past two years.

Recently, the official party newspaper in Peking, Jenmin Jih Pai, felt it necessary to warn its readers against the "numbered works" of composers Ludwig van Beethoven and Franz Schubert in an article, "Works of Music Without Titles Don't Reflect the Class Spirit."

For some reason, reports the New York Times, the newspaper was particularly critical of Sonata No. 17 by that "German capitalist musician Beethoven." Schubert came in for knocks because of his Symphony in B Minor, the one he never got around to finishing.

"This last word not only has no title," said the paper, "but it also depicts eveident class sentiments, having been written in an epoch when Austria, reactionary feudal bastion in the Germanic Frederation, was exercising cruel oppression and exploitation of peasants and workers."

It happens that Schubert was a gentle, impoverished teacher who never oppressed anyone, except by an untimely death that deprived the world of much potential beauty.

As for "capitalist" Beethoven most of what money he earned went to support a ne'er-do-well nephew and about the only political act of his life was to rear up the dedication of his "Eroica" Symphony to Napoleon when he learned that his "people's hero" had proclaimed himself an emperor.

But then, these are facts that don't fit the arguments of the Communist ideologies.

"Music, like all other forms of art, must be an instrument for class struggle," pronounces Jenmin Jih Pao.

What a sour note.

Food for peace--or war?

WASHINGTON — The Food for Peace program, established to feed the hungry of the world, has been perverted into a Food for War program in Southeast Asia.

This sinister change has been manipulated quietly by the National Security Council. Of the $1 billion worth of food that is shipped abroad for the needy, the NSC has insisted almost half should go to bolster the military strength of Cambodia and South Vietnam, according to classified documents.

Elsehwere, the food is sold through regular commercial channels to alleviate shortages and prevent hunger. The United States foots the bill, treating it as a low-interest loan to be repaid over a long period.

But in Cambodia, President Nixon gave the Lon Nol regime special permission to use up to 80 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of American food for "common defense" and "internal security." In South Vietnam, the Thieu regime is permitted to spend a full 100 per cent of the food proceeds on military buildups.

Classified documents show that the President started off this fiscal year with a reasonable request for $30 million to finance Food for Peace shipments to Cambodia. But bit by bit, the White House requests ballooned to $173 million and are likely to go higher.

Even more food aid has been earmarked for South Vietnam, although the jump in the request has been less drastic.

While most food aid to the two embattled countries has been in rice, the documents show that 175,000 metric tons of wheat will be supplied by next July. Yet the wheat shortage at home has pushed up the price of bread to 50 cents a loaf and has forced the United States to import wheat at exhorbitant prices.

For years, the Food for Peace program, along with the Peace Corps, has won friends for the United States among the world's poor. We have seen burlap bags of grain and boxes of cereal, with big "USA" markings, going into impoverished villages.

But in the besieged Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, one of our informants witnessed a different scene, not far from a camp where hundreds of refugees complained of food shortages. He counted 50 trucks filled with bags of U.S. rice lined up outside a military warehouse. Instead of feeding the starving refugees, it was going for Army rations.

ASTHMA BONANZA: A Senate subcommittee has found that a national fund drive for asthmatic children has raised almost $10 million, but spent only a miserly 14 per cent to help sick youngsters.

The rest has gone for fat salaries and expenses for fundraisers, plus a promotion campaign to sell a book by a director of the Asthmatic Children's Foundation.

In hearings beginning this week, Sen. Walter Mondale's Children and Youth subcommittee plans to probe children's charity drives which use the sympathy of contributors for children to line fundraisers' pockets.

Mondale's investigators have already discovered that the Asthmatic Children's Foundation, whose main office is located in Miami Beach, raised $9.9 million over the last decade, purportedly to aid youngsters who are wheezing and sometimes dying from breath-robbing asthma.

The foundation's soliciations tell of the "many children in our residential treatment centers" and include touching pleas for funds to help those "who will not be at home this year."

Actually, the Mondale probers found only about 50 or so youngsters are under full-time care in the foundation's treatment centers. The same solicitation urges contributors to buy a three-dollar book by a foundation director, Dr. Harold Abramson.

What the solicitation does not say is that 86 per cent of the money contributed for asthmatic kids has been used for "fundraising activities," mostly salaries and expenses.

Over $7 million has gone to a Chicago fundraiser named V. H. Giesler & Co., a Mondale staff report shows. Giesler, when queried by Mondale's sleuths, explained that it takes money to raise money.

Other probes planned

The hearings this week will also include advice from well-run foundations on how costs can be kept to a minimum so that the children can get most of the contributions.

Mondale is also seeking ways to let the public know which charities are doing the best job.

In coming months, Mondale, a former crusading attorney general in Minnesota who exposed corrupt charities there, plans to probe more children's foundations.

Already, he has found evidence that donations to other charities have been used to buy luxury items for fundraisers, pay $50,000-a-year salaries, provide hidden compensation through insurance deals and pay for visits by fundraisers to sumptuous hotels.

PAUL HARVEY

Are our schools failing?

Educating everyone to the limit of his capacity to learn sounds like a worthy objective — but is it?

Or do we inevitably pay for increased quantity in education with decreased quality? Did you know that teachers in Birmingham, Ala., public schools now carry guns?

Birmingham's public schoolteachers have been beaten, knifed and shot at — until they had to arm themselves in self-defense.

Teachers sought and got permits to carry guns, and they carry them to class. One teacher, in self-defense, had to draw on a student last week!

School Superintendent Wilmer Cody says the schools dare not disarm.

It's grading time for the public school system — is it failing?

In Chicago, where hundreds of teachers go to class each morning fearing for their personal safety, many "Johnny's and Marys" can't read and some can't even write their names!

In Chicago schools there were 1,000 assaults or threatened assaults on teachers last year.

One board member says, "How can a teacher teach effectively if he must spend most of his time on discipline?"

Americans are taking a second look at the performance record of colleges and universities, also.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has concluded that there should be alternatives for those who have no business there, estimating that 5 per cent to 12 per cent of the students enrolled are "reluctant attenders."

The alternative concept of education at home by television is being accused of "sensory overkill" and blamed for behavior disturbances.

Our generation, excited by technology, imagined that to educate everybody would afford a solution for everything. With every decade the duration of mandatory schooling was increased.

The now generation is about to abandon that notion. The President's Science Advisory Committee says there may be better ways of increasing enlightenment: easier child labor laws, lower minimum wage for youngsters, using big kids to teach little kids, more VISTA-type service corps to give the dropout something to drop into.

The New York Times was quick to attack this recommendation with horror stories about "child labor." But there are a lot of reasons why educators have begun to re-evaluate the "educate-everybody" concept.

As is, high schools are designed to prepare students for college — though most young people don't go to college and 80 per cent who do don't stay to graduate.

Thus, says the SAC report, we continue to try to herd our young people into an environment they don't want — perpetuating babyish dependence — at an age when previous generations of Americans were learning responsibility and self-reliance in the real world of work.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Is there a law?

You must be kidding. Why should President Nixon pay additional income taxes? He is not morally bound; his tax consultant, better prepared in tax matters, no doubt made the tax returns. There have been no tax deficiencies assessed as yet by either the state or federal revenue agents. The second guessers to date have been school children, congressmen, and other irresponsibles.

Assuming for the sake of argument you are correct in reporting that Nixon plans to pay additional taxes, possibly he hopes to avoid further harassment. Due process is one thing. Undue process can be pretty horrible. Special tribunals can hardly decide an issue, their jobs would end. Their forte is to keep the squirming victim squirming, primarily for the spectator value. Thus we see the media hashing and rehashing every word until most of us close the page, turn off the set, and go to bed.

For those of us who have read the law, no additional taxes appear due. If there are court indecisions that cloud the issue, the law should be clarified. It is unfortunate that this case cannot be tried on its merits. Are we going to pick up where Russian justice left off a few years back?

President Johnson was driven out of office by harassment. President Nixon has suffered indignation far worse. It's fascinating to see the heads roll, but is it good for the country? — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Gossip for today

A recent news item stated that Claremont school and city officials were meeting to discuss "Claremont High students meandering in the park."

"So what is MEANDERING?" I asked myself.

Well, according to The American Heritage Dictionary, MEANDERING means: "To wander aimlessly and idly without fixed direction."

So once again I sense a typical example of officialdom's inherent fear of calling a spade a spade. Speaking from personal experience as a former high school student, I can definitely assure you that high school students just don't "wander aimlessly and idly in parks." You can take my word for it, there's certainly some "fixed direction" . . . particularly if it is boy and girl meandering.

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon and Laird: incompatible

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The astonishing disagreement between Richard M. Nixon and Melvin R. Laird over amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers underscores as nothing else the President's dangerous isolation from the shrewd politician who has just ended eight frustrating months as domestic counselor.

Not only disagreement on one issue but antithetical political philosophies and noncommunication between two old allies are glaringly revealed by their conflicting response to a Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) protest over Laird's avowed interest in "conditional amnesty."

Without consulting or informing Laird, President Nixon told the VFW his opposition to amnesty remains totally inflexible. Without consulting or informing the President, Laird told the VFW that changing conditions have modified his own earlier opposition to amnesty.

Nothing could better demonstrate the basic incompatibility of the two men. In telling the VFW that "throughout my career of public service, I have learned to avoid absolute, dogmatic positions," Laird was implicitly contrasting Mr. Nixon's rigidity. But beyond the contrast, the VFW correspondence revealed the degree to which the President has simply stopped talking to his domestic counselor.

With U.S. forces no longer fighting in Vietnam, Laird has long felt something must be done about 30,000 to 40,000 young men who fled this country to escape the draft. He said nothing to the President, but in a Jan. 5 interview with a Scripps-Howard reporter suggested amnesty for the exiles in return for "some sort of service" to their country.

Instead, staffers who routinely handle correspondence checked the President to make certain he still opposed amnesty in any form.

He did. His Jan. 23 letter to Soden, not released to the press, reaffirmed his stand. "The few who refused to serve or deserted their country," he wrote, "must pay a penalty for their choice. . . we cannot provide forgiveness for them. . .the price is a criminal penalty." That, the President added, "still relfects my view." He shrugged off "recent reports in the press which have been attributed to others," without a gesture at defending Laird.

Reading that interview, the VFW hierarchy was outraged. On Jan. 7, national commander Ray R. Soden sent Mr. Nixon a smoldering letter which reiterated the VFW's "total and unremitting opposition to any form of amnesty." He expressed "shock and a deep sense of betrayal" by Laird's new position, adding that he considers Laird's "actions and apparent sentiments" about amnesty "to be unconscionable" and "a break of faith both with you and with the strong men and women who served, suffered, and in 57,000 cases, died." Soden's request: "a personal reaffirmation from you on this matter."

Rapid correspondence not being the strong suit of the Nixon White House, no reply was sent the VFW until Jan. 23. During those 16 days, Mr. Nixon did not seek out Laird, target of VFW rage. Nor did he consult counselor Bryce Harlow or the Domestic Council's staff.

Laird did a quiet burn after receiving a carbon copy of the VFW's letter to Mr. Nixon. An old Navy man who won a Purple Heart and rose from the ranks to become an officer during World WarII, VFW member Laird used Navy language to grumble that the VFW had "put a comrade on report."

On Monday, Jan. 28, beginning his last week at the White House, Laird sent his own letter to Soden. "Neither the political system nor the judicial system of the United States works on 'blanket' and arbitrary approaches," he wrote. ". . .We pride ourselves on administering justice with mercy and understanding." While opposing general amnesty, he proposed a case-by-case approach.

During Laird's White House tenure, he never discussed this with the President. Neither has anybody else, high White House officials told us. Mr. Nixon is not only isolated from the outer world but sealed off from his own staff's uncongenial advice. Knowing his revulsion for advice contradicting his own axioms, his aides protect themselves by holding their tongues.

Thus, President Nixon is probably wholly unaware of bipartisan feeling in Congress that something eventually must be done about amnesty, a feeling fully perceived not only by Laird but, more importantly, also by Vice President Gerald R. Ford. As representative of Michigan's 5th Congressional District, Ford answered mail by suggesting conditional amnesty —that is, for violators who put in substitute service for their country.

Laird, leaving the White House with his store of political wisdom sadly untapped by the President, has said Ford will now assume many of his duties. Ford is also sensitive to political trends and the need for flexibility. But whether he will prove to be one small whit more successful than the unusually-articulate Laird in getting through to the President is extremely doubtful.

Teaching plan is praised

WALNUT — Trustees of the Walnut School District lavished praise Monday night on an "experimental" English curriculum for high school students that has improved scholarship, cut discipline problems, and involved students in meeting their own needs.

In a relatively short session, trustees also agreed reluctantly to hold over for second reading and expected passage a policy statement guaranteeing summer school teachers a job for the full vacation class program if a course is dropped after five days of classes.

Additionally, the district board was informed that diesel fuel for school buses will not run short, but, if gas rationing is imposed, gasoline supplies may be reduced.

As part of the board's continuing program of progress reports on various projects under way in the schools, a detailed outline of Walnut High School's English Elective Program led off the meeting.

English Department Chairman Bruce Dunbridge and instructor Diane Dean explained how the department developed an English curriculum that offers students a choice of about 30 courses—although not all at the same time—that each last nine weeks.

They said the program was instituted as an experiment in the 1972-73 academic year as an alternative to "traditional" and "reformed" teaching methods that were not reaching students.

Although still classed as an experiment, said Dunbridge, the department considers the program a success and after some revisions hopes to drop its tentative status. The board responded with warm praise for the program, then asked some pointed questions about student response and any anticipated higher costs for the program.

There is no higher cost, replied Dunbridge—in fact, he said, it may be cheaper than previous curricula. As for students, the program has won enthusiastic approval.

When confronted with a proposed policy statement worked out in negotiations with district teachers on summer school jobs, the board became uneasy, even though trustees acknowledged it was a statement they endorsed in a previous executive session.

Trustees T. James Hannan and board President Richard Vind said that to commit the district to keeping teachers on after a summer class was dropped might, in the event of some unforeseen situation, mean that many classes would be closed while teachers were still getting paychecks. However, as Vind subsequently noted, "We can't make policies for a catastrophe," and the draft was not changed.

Schoolrooms opened for full community education uses

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Phil Pennino, coordinator of the Bixby Community School, has asked residents to "support their local community school."

A pilot project of the Hacienda-La Puente Unified School District, Bixby Community School seeks to utilize local schools for varied activities that neighborhood residents express an interest in, Pennino said.

"This semester the school is offering 16 classes ranging from physical fitness and home gardening to sewing and parent-child classes."

Several new classes will be offered this spring.

A reading skills class, for parents and their children, meets each Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Room 17 of Bixby Elementary School. It is designed to help parents help their children. It involves remedial reading skills and aids parents in teaching at home.

A new math class for parents and children meets each Monday from 3:45 to 5 p.m. in Room 12 of Bixby school.

On Thursdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. a family law class is taught in Room 17 at Bixby. Lesson material covers how to use small claims court, property owner rights, wills, marital dissolutions and general rights of citizens.

Those interested in earning high school credit may attend a refresher typing class which meets Tuesday and Thursday from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. in the typing room at Wilson High School.

Additional information regarding the community school may be obtained by calling Pennino at 968-4575.

Board formed to lay incorporation plans

DIAMOND BAR — Formation of an eight-member executive board with the stated purpose of laying the groundwork for incorporation of Diamond Bar was announced today.

Heading that board is Donald G. Stokes, a member of the board of directors of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, whose 1974 assignment was to chair a committee to study incorporation.

Stokes said his committeemen have shown deep concern for the community by working with the homeowners association in the past.

"They will formulate guidelines for an incorporation study," said Stokes. "As the committee determines its direction, additional members will be added working in respective subcommittees.

"Our committee has met and determined a statement of purpose which is to lay groundwork for incorporation."

Those serving with Stokes are Richard Vind, Carl Meyer, Frank Morales and Jack Tillery, all past presidents of the homeowners association; Betty Phillips, a two-term secretary to the association; H. George Taylor, an attorney and Diamond Bar resident; and Frank Skrah, current association president who will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

The first steps taken by the committee, Stokes said, will be to review the feasibility study which was made by Los Angeles County in 1969. "After reviewing this 4-year-old study the committee may request an up-dated feasibility study," he added.

Stokes said that contact had been made with the Local Agency Formation Commission of Los Angeles County and been assured that it would provide an outline of procedures for use in the incorporation study.

Stokes said his committee would be meeting with commission representatives early this month to ask for assistance and direction.

The incorporation of Diamond Bar is a relatively new idea to be discussed in the community.

The homeowners association has pending with that body an application for Municipal Advisory Council status which would allow election of a council to advise the board.

L. M. BOYD

Girlfriends inspired song, 'Lili Marlene'

He was a poet who didn't know it was William Whewell. In his "Elementary Treatise on Mechanics," he simply meant it as prose when he wrote: "And so no force, however great, can stretch a cord, however fine, into a horizontal line which shall be absolutely straight." It's the best known example in the English language of unconscious but perfect rhyme.

A dry martini with an olive is apt to inhibit your sense of smell, but a gin and tonic tends to enhance it.

Reports Henry J. Malinowsky: "Everybody knows who the great Stan 'The Man' Musial is. But how many know the name Musial in Polish means 'He had to do it'?"

Love and war

"A woman without coquetry is as insipid as a rose without scent, champagne without sparkle, cornbeef without mustard." Withrop said that. And you may recall that our Love and War man concurs. Now a feminine customer asks, "How can a girl flirt with a man without inviting some insolent proposition?" Nothing to it. Just look the old boy straight in the eye and say, "Don't speak. You might break the spell." Then amble off.

Q. "In a horse race, how much credit should go to the horse, how much to the jockey?"

A. Figure 80 per cent to the horse, 20 per cent to the rider. At least, that's the common notion among the track boys.

Darker the greens in the salad, the more vitamin A said salad contains. Remember that, if you drive much at night. Vitamin A helps your night vision.

Lili Marlene

Was reported that the lyrics entitled "Lili Marlene" were written in 1917 by a German soldier named Hans Leip. Inspired by two of his Berlin girlfriends, one named Lili, the other Marleen. Please note, our spelling of the song title differs from the spelling of the name of the original Berlin girl. Why? Because the English copyists identified it with Marlene Dietrich, none other. So mighty was Miss Dietrich's influence, in fact, that the only popular versions of the song have been sung by women, even though the sense of the words demands it be sung by men.

Most popular new subject by far among physicians who go back to school after entering practice is psychiatry.

Almost but not quite 50 per cent of the women who wear girdles are dissatisfied with the way said girdles fit them. The undergarment makers came up with that fact. Can you use it?

Fiscal watchdog's opinion

Legislature urged to slash budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature was urged today to slash $85.4 million from Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.81 billion "energy crisis" year state budget.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, the legislature's nonpartisan fiscal watchdog, sunk his deepest recommended cuts in proposed building programs of the University of California, Department of Education and Department of Motor Vehicles.

In his annual analysis of the governor's budget, Post also called for a reduction of $6.3 million in property tax relief for senior citizens, recommended $2.5 million to remodel the aging south block of San Quentin prison be eliminated and proposed cutting back the Office of State Printing by $5.8 million, including 120 positions.

Post called for cutting a net $85.4 million from Reagan's biggest-ever-proposed state budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. He recommended total reductions of $93.1 million and budget additions of $7.6 million.

In his analysis sent to the legislature, Post delayed making some recommendations until the state's revenue picture becomes clearer and the impact of the "energy crisis" is easier to read.

Extreme uncertainty

Post said California and the nation are in a period of "extreme uncertainty over the future economic outlook."

"As a result, the revenue estimates contained in the budget are subject to a wider margin of error than normal, and there is a possibility they could be too optimistic, especially if a serious energy shortage continues beyond the first quarter of 1974," Post said.

He said he was hopeful of more "definitive information" in May when the Department of Finance submits its revised revenue estimates to the lawmakers.

In the Department of Education's proposed spending plan, Post called for elimination of $19.9 million for construction of a new school for the deaf. He said the existing State School for the Deaf at Riverside would be adequate when combined with a new plan adopted by the state Board of Education which requires local districts to provide for exceptional children.

He also called for reducing building costs of the University of California health science facilities by $18.9 million, including construction of a new optometry building at Berkeley, a veterinary medicine building at Davis and replacement hospital facilities at San Francisco. He said construction couldn't be completed this year anyway and the hospital expenditure didn't represent a "prudent appropriation."

DMV hit

He recommended trimming $4.1 million from the Department of Motor Vehicles budget for construction of field offices pending consideration of proposed changes in operation of the offices.

Other higher education capital outlay which Post recommended elimating included a $3.2 million science building at California State University at Bakersfield. He said the campus has "adequate" class-laboratory space but needs more classrooms.

Reagan proposed $2.5 million to remodel the ancient and infamous "South Block" of San Quentin to accomodate an increasing number of violenceprone convicts. Post noted that Reagan two years ago proposed closure of San Quentin by 1974.

"While alterations at San Quentin would be an improvement, we question the advisability of continued longrange operation of this institution," he said, adding that renovation costs would be about 70 per cent of the cost of a new prison.

Post suggested the reduction of $6.3 million in the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance program because Reagan's estimate of average household income of elderly claimants "does not take into account the 20 per cent increase in Social Security benefits adopted late in 1972." Reagan had recommended $60.1 million.

Post held off a recommendation on proposed pay raises for state civil servants and likewise delayed a recommendation on the Medi-Cal program pending a review of caseload figures and more data on the impact of the new state supplemental grant program for adult welfare recipients.

Automated tellers get approval

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are more than 1,000 automated tellers in U.S. bunks and probably twice that many more are on order, Arthur D. Little, Inc., reports.

The devices, usually embedded in building walls, are gaining rapid favor among American bankers. First introduced in Europe and Japan, the card-activated tellers for 24-hour banking appeared in the United States in 1968.

Montclair refuses rate hike for Chaffey Humane Society

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Members of the Montclair City Council expressed dissatisfaction Monday night with the level of service provided by the Chaffey Community Humane Society and refused to approve suggested rate increases for the service.

"I'm hesitant to approve any increase without examining the level of service first," said Mayor Harold Hayes during discussion of the proposed rate hike.

Councilman Leonard Soper stated bluntly that he was not satisfied with the Humane Society's service in Montclair and would not approve the increases.

Soper cited instances in which residents have called the Humane Society to report stray dogs roaming their neighborhood and then waited in vain for any response.

On one occasion, said Soper, he saw a Humane Society employe asleep in his parked truck at 3 p.m.

"We ought to take a look at this thing (the level of service)," Soper said.

The suggested increases would have raised the licensing fee for both male and female dogs to $8 per year, representing a $2 increase. Neutered or spayed dogs' fees would be only $4.

Also included in the propsal before the council were porposed fines for violations of the leash law. These ranged from $7 for the first offense to $15 for the third occurrence.

Following the council's discussion of the proposals, the matter was tabled pending completion of a study by the city staff on the level of service provided in Montclair by the Humane Society.

In other action, the council:

—Extended the city's contract with the Hohnstein Disposal Service for refuse collection in Montclair. The action did not include a rate increase, which will be granted on July 1, 1974 based on cost of living increases during the 24-month period ending in April of this year.

—Awarded a $43,889 contract to the Sully-Miller Construction Co. for street improvements on Benito Street between Monte Vista Avenue and the San Antonio Channel.

—Directed the city staff, at the urging of Councilman Soper, to study ways of reducting street lighting during the energy crisis. Soper suggested that lighting be reduced by 15 per cent. He noted, however, that reductions in residential neighborhoods and at intersections were not desirable.

OLIVIA COLGROVE

PTA unit gives honor to Ontarian

ONTARIO — Mrs. Olivia Colgrove of Ontario has been named the recipient of the 1974 honorary service award from the Fifth District PTA.

Serving actively in PTA since 1962, Mrs. Colgrove was charter PTA president of Elderberry School in 1963 and later president of Vernon Junior High School PTA. Her main field of service has been public welfare, disaster preparedness and the block mother program.

Mrs. Colgrove was presented the award by Mrs. Herbert Howard, honorary service award chairman, at a luncheon meeting of the Fifth District PTA in Redlands recently. Mrs. William Gerlach of Ontario, president of the district group, served as hostess for the occasion.

Mrs. Colgrove's husband, Morton, and daughter Carol, a Chaffey College student, participated in the presentation.

Despite property owners' objections

Chino okays 3 tract maps

By MAE TAKE
P-B Staff Write

CHINO — The Planning Commission approved three tentative tract maps Monday night-two in spite of pressure from opposing property owners and the other with some commission members reluctance.

The commission unanimously approved tract maps for a sub-division of 155 lots at the southeast corner of Chino and East End avenues and another of 157 lots at the southeast corner of Chino Avenue and the county flood control channel.

Commissioners agreed that these two developments were of "the highest quality of homes to date" and rejected a petition from residential-agricultural property owners, who also owned horses, in the county to deny approval.

The third property involved the 30 controversial acres owned by Paul Barnhill to be developed with 126 lots by Acoustics Inc. of Chino. Commission Chairman Nancy Carpenter and member Eileen Carter joined reluctantly in the 4-0 approval, with member James Sanders abstaining.

Sanders delayed several minutes in what he described as an "internal struggle" before abstaining from the motion from John Richartz for approval.

On the Barnhill property, City Atty. Bill McVittie warned that "to deny approval of a subdivision map because of disagreement or concern with the zoning is improper."

Mrs. Carter commented that she, too, "deplored" this particular zone change. However, she continued, "the fact remains it is zoned R-1 and according to our city attorney, we can't deny it except with regrets."

She voiced the hope that "the development would be a future credit to the community and not a future slum."

Sanders said it was "unfortunate that the ruling of the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) on zone of influence has been overruled despite presentations from representatives of the City of Chino."

Following his absention, Mrs. Carpenter, a vocal opponent of the Barnhill development for more than two years, whispered her yes vote and requested that the comments of the commission be forwarded to the City Council.

Sanders said the zoning is "totally lacking in regard to the community, and in regard to the environmental impact around it and for people who live in it."

The county Board of Supervisors had granted the R-1 zoning in spite of LAFCO's finding that Chino should have this say.

The other two tract maps were submitted by Harvey Berger and were originally tabled from the Jan. 21 commission meeting after residents to the north protested additional R-1 development. During a subsequent planning staff meeting with about 50 property owners, their spokesman, Ron White, suggested a bridle trail along the western boundary of the subdivisions and six-foot block wall be constructed to shield R-A and R-1 residents from each other.

Susan White presented a petition with the signatures of all the R-A homeowners in the area north of the tracts to the commission Monday night. She and another man claimed the R-1 developement was an "encroachement against our standard of living."

Berger told commissioners he was willing to construct the block wall and bridle path "although it hurts the aesthetics of the devevelopment."

Mrs. Carter noted "this is the highest quality development that has come before us to date." She added that "boundaries (between R-1 and R-A) have to be made somewhere, consistent with good planning."

Richartz pointed out that the protesting residents were in the county and should take their argument to the Board of Supervisors.

Planning director Gale Carr stated that a joint city-county study was necessary for the area in the west end of the city's zone of influence; and that both the city and county must amend their general plan to create boundaries to protect existing and future R-A development.

The commission approved the tracts with the block wall to be maintained by homeowners, moved the bridle path from the west to the north side thus requiring county approval, and created an easement between two lots to allow vehicular access.

In Chaffey High School District

New construction approved

By JEANNE HEMENOVER
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Plans for two construction projects in the Chaffey Union High School District were approved by the board of trustees Monday night.

The second phase of the Chaffey Training Center building is one of the projects, calling for construction of three classrooms, rest room facilities and electrical services at a cost of nearly $130,000.

James Clark, facilities director, noted that when the first phase construction of two rooms, with kitchens rest rooms and office facilities was done in 1970 it was at a cost of $21.95 per square foot. The cost is now $39.55 per square foot.

The board also approved purchase of a lot for a student house building project. The house will be built by students of the Chaffey High School building construction class, beginning next fall, with completion set for May 1975.

The site for the house is on F Street east of San Antonio Avenue and north of the old San Antonio School. According to J. Milo Thomas, district business manager, the site has been surveyed and the city is ready to issue a building permit. The cost of the lot is estimated at $7,500.

During their meeting board members also approved the appointment of Donald W. Stalwick as assistant principal for educational services at Upland High School and of Sol J. Friedman and Mrs. Ann Kunze as counselors at Chaffey High School.

Stalwick is in his second year as a counselor at Chaffey High School. He has also taught at Upland and Alta Loma high schools in the district.

Friedman has been a member of the social science department at Chaffey High School for 20 years and Mrs. Kunze has been teaching English at Upland High School this year.

In other action the board:

—Accepted the resignation of Harry Potter, student body account clerk at Upland High School, for retirement purposes. Potter has been with the district 14 years.

—Heard a report on the National Conference on Safety Education at Central Missouri State University by the district's representative, John Bratta, chairman of the driver education department at Chaffey High School.

—Accepted a gift of photographic equipment from Jim Caruso of Covina for use in the Chaffey High School photography class.

—Approved an agreement for structural engineering services for the Montclair Stadium bleachers with the firm of Moon, Winter, Chew and Associates.

Upland

Mountain Ave. crossing resolved

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — A phone call to Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-72nd Dist., was apparently all it took to resolve the city's problem with the Southern Pacific Railroad over the widening of the Mountain Avenue crossing.

At Monday night's council meeting, City Manager Elwin Alder announced that he had received written notice from the railroad agreeing to share costs with the city on the widening project south of Arrow Highway.

The letter was prompted by Councilman Harold Bailin's call to Assemblyman Quimby late last month apprising him of the city's 18-months of fruitless negotiations with the railroad to get the project underway.

The call was part of the city's "get tough" plan that included strong letters of protest to the railroad and to the Public Utilities Commission which were authorized last month.

The council Monday night approved the plan to share costs on a 50-50 basis with the railroad and to pay the $2,125 costs for additional rails and planking for the widened crossing.

Upland's share of the project will be $12,850. Half of this amount can be recouped by the city from the Public Utilities Commission, according to City Engineer Fred Blanchard.

Final approval for the project is expected from the PUC in a matter of weeks, Blanchard added.

In other major action, the council approved an emergency ordinance setting guidelines to implement the recently enacted governmental conflict of interests act.

In addition to setting forth definitions of conflict, exceptions that may be made under the act and other legal procedures, the ordinance specifies those officials who are submect to the act's provisions.

In Upland these officials include all members of the council, Planning Commission, Architectural Commission and Administrative Committee, and the city clerk, treasurer, attorney and manager.

Persons exempted in the ordinance are the chiefs of police and fire, building inspector, public works director, planning director, purchasing department head and all other department heads and employes.

In other action, the council:

—Approved a first reading on a zone change from neighborhood commercial (C-2) to commercial with conditional use permit required (C-4S on 12.7 acres at the northwest corner of Mountain Avenue and Arrow Highway.

—Approved the appointment of Mrs. Kathleen Bernath as library director, effecteive Feb. 1. She has been serving as acting director.

—Awarded contracts for the purchase of 10 police cars at a cost of $31,545 to Arena Ford of Upland; and to the state for $3,677.68 for a new police station wagon.

—Continued until the first meeting in March action on a General Plan amendment setting forth various locations of parks, school sites and recreation services until the Upland Elementary School District board has had a chance to review the measure.

President asks vets' day be changed back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress this week to restore Nov. 11 as the official date for Veterans Day, saying that veterans' groups would prefer a day of commemoration to a three-day weekend.

In 1968, Congress changed the official national observance of Veterans Day from Nov. 11— the "Armistice Day" ending World War I—to the fourth Monday in October. The change, Nixon said, "has stirred up considerable confusion and not a small amount of resentment."

Nixon said 31 state legislatures restored Nov. 11 as their official date and in many places, including the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery, dual observances were scheduled.

Keep your eyes on the star from Bonita

If you're already looking forward to next year's basketball season in the Pomona Valley, keep your eyes on a young 6-foot forward from Bonita High.

His is Harold (or H.P.) Drake and he's destined to become one of the best athletes ever to come out of the valley.

Only a junior, Harold is the third leading scorer in the valley this season and could very easily end up as No. 2 by the time the season comes to an end.

And then he can get ready for his final year as a high school star — a year in which he hopes to improve on his past performances.

If he does improve, he'll obviously be the player to watch next year in both the Hacienda League and in the valley . . . and maybe even in the entire CIF Southern Section.

"Next year I hope to improve, of course," said the player they call H.P. (standing for Harold Paul). "I hope I can grow a little and put on a little weight too."

Harold is listed as standing at 6-foot even and weighing in at about 168 pounds. On a team which really hasn't had much success this season, Drake has just about played every position in the starting lineup.

"We've used him everywhere," stated Bonita coach Remi Tremblay. "He's a complete player. In fact, I think he's perhaps the most complete player in the league and there are a lot of good players in this league. He shoots, dribbles, rebounds and plays good defense. For the general basics, I think he executes better than anybody in the league."

★ ★ ★

Not only is Harold great at executing plays, he's also becoming an expert at executing opponents.

Harold pumped in the winning basket against La Puente in the opening round of the Edgewood Tournament this year to give Bonita its first win of the year. He scored 33 points in that outing.

Then in a league outing against San Dimas two weeks ago, Harold fired a 23-footer at the buzzer to give the Bearcats their first win ever over the Saints in what is turning into an interesting rivalry. He dumped in 17 points that time out.

He had three 30-plus games in the scoring column in Bonita's first five games of the season, but lately he's been held to just under 20 points per game.

"Lately the teams have been collapsing on him," pointed out coach Tremblay. Harold has noticed it too.

"I think almost every team we play is keying on me now," said the junior star. "Now I have to depend on getting position and it makes me work a little harder. I think being keyed on is good for me."

Comparing last year to this season Harold continued, "Last year I was playing against bigger and older guys. I wasn't experienced enough and didn't know what to do. This year I know what I can do and I know where I can shoot from."

"When he gets the ball, there are certain areas on the floor where we encourage him to shoot," said the Bearcat skipper. "His total game has improved considerably over last year and his shot selection is much better as compared to last year."

"One of his best characteristics is that he has the ability to get open without the ball," added Tremblay.

★ ★ ★

Even with his 21.4 average, Harold is showing signs of frustration.

"I'm a little bit unhappy with my game lately," said the guy who also quarterbacked the Bonita football team last season. "I am not really playing bad, but I'm not really playing well either."

Harold is caught in an unusual situation this year. His brother, Dan, is the assistant coach of the team.

"It's a little different," H.P. admitted. "He gets a little bit of pressure and so do I. I was a little bit surprised, though. I thought he'd probably pull me off to the side during a game and tell me what I'm doing wrong, but he doesn't. He just treats like one of the other players during a game."

Harold may be treated like one of the other players, and he may act like just one of the players sometimes, but when he gets out on the court he plays like a bear.

A SMILING WALTON

UCLA's Bill Walton shows his appreciation on receiving the Sullivan Award as nation's top amateur athlete.

Bill Walton talks to press

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Red-haired Bill Walton, the Howard Hughes of college basetball, has been named to receive the AAU's Sullivan Award for 1973.

But that wasn't really a surprise. The surprise was Walton was at a Monday news conference at UCLA to pose with his award as the nation's top amateur athlete.

Walton, who has kept his distance from reporters since he arrived on Westwood campus from La Mesa, Calif., four years ago, showed up with UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan and Bruins' Coach John Wooden.

"I don't mind talking to people but I'm not real comfortable where there are 30 people staring me in the face with bright lights," UCLA's two-time College Player of the Year told the phalanx of newsmen. "And I like to be comfortable."

AAU President David Rivenes of Miles City, Mont., announced Walton's selection but said the presentation would be made at a formal dinner.

Walton is the 44th recipient of the award, which is made by a vote by members of the AAU Board of Governors. The board represents all 50 states and each of the AAU's 20 sports plus members of the sports media who cover amateur athletics.

"It is a great honor and I'm very pleased to receive this award," Walton said. "But I think the coach knows and the guys on the team know that I'm really not receiving this for myself.

"We just all understand that the media tends to pick out individuals and I happen to be 6-11 and have red hair and I'm the one who gets picked out. I'm sure my teammates realize the importance of this trophy as an award to our team and our coach."

Walton may have been uncomfortable but he didn't show it. Dressed in a blue work shirt and blue jeans and wearing sandals sans socks, he smiled frequently and didn't dodge any questions.

After the news conference, he put on a back pack and rode off on his 10-speed bicycle across the campus.

Morgan admonished a reporter once during the news conference after the newsman asked Walton about his famous knees and if they would prevent him from playing pro basketball next season.

"Gentleman," he said sternly, "I'd like to stop this right now from this type of questioning. We're here for the Sullivan Award which is an amateur award. We're here for UCLA and UCLA basketball and I think that's what we will talk about."

In the voting, Walton—only the second basketball player honored by the AAU—received 1,902 points to 1,856 for 1972 Olympic 800-meter gold medalist Dave Wottle of Bowling Green. The first basketball player chosen for the Sullivan Award was Princeton's Bill Bradley in 1965.

WFL clubs trade

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The World Football League launched the final day of its college draft today with a trade as Florida traded draft rights to Arizona State's Woody Green to Memphis for two draft picks.

Florida had drafted Green in the first round. He was the third player picked in the draft which was held Jan. 22.

Green, a 5-11, 198 pound running back, was also the No. 1 choice of the Kansas City Chiefs in last week's National Football League draft.

By making the trade with Memphis, Florida acquired the first pick in the seventh and the last pick in the eighth rounds of today's draft. Florida used its seventh round selection to draft Henry Lawrence, an offensive tackle from Florida A&M.

Other seventh round picks included Monte Doris, defensive end from Southern California, picked by New York, and Bill Simpson, a defensive back from Michigan State who was selected by Detroit.

The WFL pulled the rug out from under the NFL when it signed UCLA star running backs James McAlister and Kermit Johnson and USC guard Booker Brown last Monday before the NFL's draft on Tuesday.

The players selected today are expected to make up the brunt of the WFL rosters depending on the signing of early draft picks and NFL and Canadian League veterans who play out their options.

O.J. Simpson, who set a single season NFL rushing record with the Buffalo Bills in 1973, echoed the thoughts of other NFL players in expressing the hope that the WFL succeeds.

"I sincerely hope that the league catches on, especially for the players' sake," said Simpson before receiving the S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award in New York Monday.

"Of course, I have no intention of leaving since I'm tied up with the Bills and am satisfied. But I tell any player who asks me, 'If your contract is about up, I wouldn't sign another one until I checked out the other league.' I'd hate to lose any of the guys on our team, but we're in this business to make money and they should be able to get the best offer they can. I hope the league makes it."

Simpson said the future of the WFL would be decided the week of May 1.

"That's when the option clauses are over and the players can negotiate with the new league," he said. "I think there are enough football players to make another league work."

The WFL's draft of current pro players will be held Feb. 18-19 in Chicago.

In addition to the draft, several teams were expected to announce the signing of free agents today.

Walnut coach true magician

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Some might say that Walnut High basketball coach Bill Murray is a magician.

The energetic Mustang mentor guided the pride of Walnut to the CIF playoffs last year in posting an 18-10 overall and 10-4 mark in Hacienda play.

This year his team is 8-0 in league, 19-2 overall, is riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak and enters Wednesday's loop battle, as host, against San Dimas with a two-game bulge over Royal Oak in the standings.

While the Mustangs and Saints are battling toe-to-toe, the Romans entertain struggling Ontario, Bonita hosts Sierra Vista (who's waiting in the wings three games back) and Alta Loma is at Gladstone. All games tipoff at 3:15 p.m.

The congenial Walnut skipper, once in a while, even goes out on a limb to make predictions. For instance, prior to the Hacienda League openers Murray most casually said he believed that the Mustangs were the team to beat.

No, that's not an astonishing statement. . .since the other seven coaches agreed with him.

Then, just last week, when the Mustangs were ranked third in the CIF 2-A polls behind Cerritos and Agoura, Murray commented that Cerritos wouldn't end up the No. 1 team. . ."In fact, they won't even win their league."

Friday night, Cerritos dropped a 61-57 decision to No. 8 rated Mayfair.

Walnut is No. 1 in league and possibly the 2-A division because they're a cohesive, well-coached, unit.

Among the starting five are the No. 1 Hacienda League and Pomona Valley scorer. . .Kirk Christ (21.0 and 24.3 points per game, respectively), an All-Pomona Valley and All-HL first team defensive back. . .Lance Parrish, and the Hacienda League doubles tennis champion for the past two years.

In fact, the latter has quite a racket going for him as the prestidigitator on the hardwoods . . . Marcelo Maurin.

The little tree (5-11 senior, guard) is overshadowed by big trees in the Mustang forest but he's never forgotten by the opposition.

The little Frenchman is fifth in the league in scoring with a 16.5 point per game average and has averaged 14.6 points per outing in the 19 games he's participated. He missed two games, in the Nogales Christmas Tournament, with the flu.

In fact, the consistant playmaker has ended up in double figures in 15 of the 19 games he's played, besides averaging six rebounds and six assists each outing.

Maurin is in his third season with the Walnut varsity. He was brought up from the junior varisty team late his sophomore season, played the role of John Havlicek. . .sixth man. . .his junior year, and is the No. 2 scorer on the team this year.

"He really likes basketball," said Murray, "And wants to play college basketball. He's tough, playing with five stitches above his right eye suffered in practice two weeks ago, and he's dedicated."

"He's worked hard at being the excellent ball handler he is and he's improved at every aspect of his game.

In his dedication, Maurin went to UCLA coach John Wooden's summer basketball camp his junior year and to Bob Boyd's camp after his sophomore season. Incidentally, he's anti-UCLA and an avid Jerry Tarkanian fan.

"He's a quiet kid," continued Murray, "not critical of other players which it comes to mistakes, and he fits in real well with Lance (Parrish) and Kirk (Christ). He's very coachable.

"Because of his dedication and despite other people's underestimating his size, if he's given the opportunity he'll do well in college basketball."

Murray went on to say that he's a take charge player, despite his quietness. He triggers the fastback offense and has improved his shooting, 45 per cent as compared to 38 last year.

Bruins prep for Oregon's rugged Ducks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA, which isn't a surprise, and Oregon, which is, meet at Pauley Pavilion Friday night to decide who's the real No.1—in the Pacific-8.

And John Wooden says his Bruins better be ready for a rugged game.

"I don't know if they're physicaliy stronger than all the other clubs in our league," the UCLA coach said Monday, "but their very, very aggressive style of basketball makes them perhaps the most physical team in the league.

"As long as we play our ball game I think we'll be all right. But we can't get disturbed by a different style of play."

The Bruins, rated first in the nation, and the Webfoots, who aren't in the top 20, take 5-0 records into Pauley.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Southern California Basketball Writers, Wooden stressed the fact his Bruins would be facing a highly motivated Dick Harter-coached club.

"Obviously, being unbeaten at this stage of the conference makes them (Oregon) feel like they certainly have a good chance to win the conference," he said. "A win over us would certainly enhance their confidence and momentum. It possibly might be what it takes to get them over the hump."

Wooden also indicated he was worried about Oregon State, a team UCLA hosts Saturday night.

"Oregon State has been a little bit disappointing the last couple of years," he noted. "There was a feeling they had pretty good personnel and expected to do better. But I think they're very capable."

Tenth-ranked Southern California lost a tough 65-56 decision at Pauley last weekend and Trojans' Coach Bob Boyd sounded concerned.

"We have to play well to beat our competition," he said. "We can't be even a little flat so we can't take our loss too heavily. We have to play inspired basketball.

"If we win both our games this weekend, we'll be 5-2 (in the Pac-8) and we'll be right back in it as a contender."

The Trojans exchange opponents with the Bruins Friday and Saturday nights, first facing Oregon State and then Oregon.

Named players of the week by the writers were Bob Gross, Long Beach State, university division, and Rick Reed, Azusa Pacific, college division.

Reed scored 90 points last week to lead Azusa to three wins. The Cougar guard made 41 of 69 shots and had 12 rebounds.

Racing halted at Los Alamitos

LOS ALAMITOS — A malfunction of the totalizator equipment at Los Alamitos race course Monday night caused the cancellation of the evening's racing program after just one race.

The Horsemen's Quarter Horse Racing Assn. made the announcement following the first race, won by Miss Little Town with Robert Adair in the saddle.

All admission tickets will be honored on any date through the remainder of the meeting which closes Saturday night with the second running of the $50,000 HQHRA Championship.

Angels give Nolan Ryan 100 per cent pay raise

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Fireballing Nolan Ryan didn't get any bonuses when he fired two nohitters and set a major league record of 383 strikeouts last season.

Harry Dalton, the California Angels' general manager, assured Ryan he would be rewarded handsomely in 1974. Dalton was as good as his word —and then some—Monday.

Ryan, who turned 27 last Thursday, was given a plus-100 per cent raise from '73 in his contract for next season, an estimated $95,000 from $44,000.

"I'll say it was pretty close to $100,000," Ryan said by phone from his home in Alvin, Tex.

"He received an outstanding raise for an outstanding performance," said Dalton. "It is evident that he has established himself as one of the top pitchers in all of baseball."

In his second season for the Angels in '73, Ryan compiled a 21-16 record and had the fourth best ERA in the American League of 2.87.

In 1972, he was 19-16 with a 2.28 ERA and led the majors with 329 strikeouts.

Padres' skipper 'no loser'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — "I don't feel the good lord put me on this earth to be a loser," John McNamara said Monday in his first public appearance since being named manager of the previously hapless San Diego Padres.

Citing the acquisition during the off-season of Willie McCovey, Glenn Beckert, Bobby Tolan and Matty Alou, McNamara said, "I don't want to finish last and I want to improve on last year. These guys have been winners before."

Pictured as a man who can relate with the players both by McCovey and General Manager Buzzie Bavasi, McNamara left his coaching post at San Francisco Saturday to sign a one-year pact to manage the Padres, a club which has finished last for the past five seasons.

He and Bavasi talked extensively during the weekend and the general manager noted that most new managers want to know how the individual players run, hit and throw.

"Not McNamara," Bavasi said. "He wanted to know about each player...what makes him tick, has he had trouble with managers, what are his likes and dislikes....Those are questions you would think come second. They come first with Johnny Mac."

McNamara visualizes the Padres as a team that can score runs but may have questionable pitching. He was high on the outfield, especially with former first baseman Nate Colbert in left.

"But pitching is the thing," he said. "We have some good arms and we're going to have to develop them, because that's where you win."

He expects a decision within a few days as to whether Bill Posedel will serve as pitching coach.

"This guy can teach and has a way of getting across," McNamara said. "The Oakland staff shows it. Their pitchers were brought up from the farm for the most part and he basically is responsible for it."

Bavasi noted the entire coaching staff should be named within the week and also said they were being selected for special needs rather than for their ability to get along.

"Some of these guys may not even know each other," he said. "It won't be the buddy system."

McNamara does not see himself as a "yeller or screamer except at umpires. When someone fouls up I'll take him aside into my office and talk to him."

The personality of the team will depend on what McNamara sees.

"In the minor leagues we had a different club every year and I have adjusted each year," he said. "I'll try to adjust to the club we have."

Irish Iceman: he's Italian this time

By United Press International

Notre Dame has come up with a new iceman and just in time.

Dwight Clay, the man who ended UCLA's 88-game winning streak with a long jump shot, is normally Notre Dame's top clutch shooter but freshman Billy Paterno stole his act Monday night.

Paterno connected on a 19-foot jump shot with just one second left to give the third-ranked Fighting Irish a 91-89 win over Michigan State. The Irish blew a nine-point lead and Michigan State went ahead with 6:12 left on Terry Furlow's basket. Paterno's shot put Notre Dame ahead for the first time after Furlow's basket.

John Shumate scored 27 points to lead Notre Dame, now 16-1, and Gary Brokaw added 21. Mike Robinson had 31 points for Michigan State, now 11-7.

In other action involving ranked teams, North Carolina State (2) beat Duke 92-78, Vanderbilt (6) edged Alabama (8) 67-65, South Carolina (15) crushed Canisius 76-58 and Kansas (16) ripped Colorado 81-66.

David Thompson had 23 points and Tom Burleson hit 19 as North Carolina State bounced back from a sluggish start to beat Duke and Terry Compton hit eight straight foul shots in the last six minutes, the last two with 35 seconds left, as Vanderbilt won its Southeastern Conference showdown with Alabama.

Alex English scored 27 points and Mark Greiner held Larry Fogle, the nation's leading scorer, to his lowest output of the season as South Carolina clobbered Canisius. Fogle, averaging 34.5 points a game, managed only 18.

Rick Suttle came off the bench to score 20 points and grab 10 rebounds as Kansas routed Colorado while elsewhere, Dennis Schaefer's 22 points carried Minnesota to a 56-51 victory over Ohio State and Larry Williams and Lon Kruger scored 12 points each as Kansas State downed Oklahoma State 66-48.

In other action, Detroit downed St. Peter's 96-82, Tennessee stopped Auburn 88-80, William & Mary topped The Citadel 64-57, Eastern Kentucky beat Marshall 83-77, Kentucky edged Louisiana State 73-70, Western Kentucky defeated Dayton 87-83, Florida nipped Mississippi State 78-75, Mississippi downed Georgia 59-55, Austin Peay beat Murray State 87-80 and Denver outlasted Southern Mississippi 112-93.

Aaron celebrating his 40th birthday

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron, the Atlanta Braves superstar who needs only two more home runs to eclipse Babe Ruth's fabled record, is 40 years old today.

Aaron, born Feb. 5, 1934 in Mobile, Ala., is one of only a small handful of active baseball players who was living when Ruth hit his 714th home run back in 1935.

Aaron had 713 home runs at the end of last season, his 20th major league campaign, and is expected to surpass Ruth's total in April, then retire at the end of the 1974 season.

Just hitting those two home runs won't satisfy Aaron. The $200,000-a year outfielder is anxious to close out his career with his pride intact. He has said he would like a season similar to '73 when he hit 40 home runs (more than any other 39-year-old player); led the Braves with his .301 average; and drove in 96 runs although playing in only three-fourth's of the Braves' games.

Aaron, who holds 13 major league records and is expected to set at last four more this year, was 18 years old when signed by the Braves in 1952. He broke into the majors at 20 as a replacement for Bobby Thomson who suffered a spring-training injury in1954 and was named to the National League All-Star team every year from 1955 on.

In addition to the home run record, Aaron needs 77 runs batted in, 144 at bats and 70 games to take over the major league records for those departments.

He has already hit more extra base hits (1,360), hit for more total bases (6,424), hit more sacrifice flies (111) and drawn more intentional walks (283) than any other man to play the game.

Christ almost too far ahead in prep derby

It looks like it's going to take a miracle for somebody to catch Walnut High's Kirk Christ in the Pomona Valley prep scoring derby.

Christ, the defending scoring champ of the valley, is apparently on his way to his second consecutive title with his 24.3 average this season. He nearly holds a three-point average ahead of the second place player.

Meanwhile, there's quite a battle shaping up for the runnerup spot in the race between Ganesha High's Cleve Porter and Bonita's Harold (H.P.) Drake. Porter is dumping in an average of 21.5 points per outing, while Drake is boasting a 21.4 average.

Rounding out the top five is Upland's Curt Oldenkamp (20.6) and Montclair's Mark Gosswiller (19.5).

Nevada official says NCAA denies rights

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Harry Reid of Nevada said Monday the NCAA denied the basic American right of due process of law to its member schools, coaches and athletes throughout the United States.

Reid made the comment Monday at Long Beach State University, a school which was a recent target of NCAA discipline based on violations filed against former Long Beach Coach Jerry Tarkanian. Tarkanian is now coach at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

Reid said the NCAA functioned under "the antiquated concept that it is a voluntary organization and if a school does not like the way they do things, the school should drop out."

But Reid said millions of dollars in revenue accrued in the athletic programs, that many games were televised and tournaments directly controlled by the NCAA. He said belonging to the NCAA was no longer voluntary but "schools are forced to be members in order to have an opportunity to compete for important revenue."

He said the NCAA had punished Long Beach State and its members in the athletic program with complete disregard for their rights. He also criticized what he said was a "definite pattern" of the NCAA in "punishing small schools and black players and disregarding violations by large, prestigious schools and white players."

"California, because of its prestige and influence in the field of amateur athletics, could force the NCAA to abandon its policy of persecuting and punishing its signators on the testimony of secret witnesses and on hearsay evidence.

"A threatened withdrawal of California from the NCAA is the only type of pressure the organization is likely to yield to," said Reid.

Damien takes one last shot at 'Pack

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

If anyone in the San Antonio League is going to unseat soccer kingpin Claremont High, it figures that it will be Damien.

The Spartans have one last chance of keeping Claremont from the SAL soccer crown, as the two squads meet Wednesday at Damien High, with the J.V. contest slated to start at 3:15 p.m. and the varsity showdown to follow immediately thereafter.

The game may well boil down to how well the Wolfpack can contain the Spartans ace scorer Bart Sullivan. Sullivan tallied three times against Garey last Friday to break ex-Claremont High star Rafael Chavez' CIF record for goals in league play. Sullivan now has 29 in eight games, as opposed to the 27 Chavez registered last year.

Covering Sullivan will be the Packs' Ralph Hawes. Hawes would seem to be facing a rugged assignment, but it ought to be noted that when the teams met previously in loop action Hawes held Sullivan to only two shots on goal as the Pack dumped Damien 2-1.

Rick Davis of the Spartans scored the only goal for Damien in that contest, which is also the only goal Claremont goalie Casey Roberts has allowed all season in league.

While the Spartans hope for Sullivan to spark the offense, they will have to put up a stiff defense to stop the Pack's Gesner DoCarmo and Jim Van Zee. Do Carmo and Van Zee have been terrorizing goalies in recent games, and Damien goal-tender Rob Lamb will have to get some help from his mates to keep DoCarmo and Van Zee away from the goal mouth.

While the Claremont-Damien battle will command most of the attention, a couple other matches look interesting in the SAL.

Ganesha has a golden chance to move up in league standings as they travel to Chino. The Cowboys are all alone in third place with a 6-2 mark and Ganesha is right at .500 with a 4-4 ledger.

The Giants have been led in recent games by Dave Seguara, Ed Lopez, and Vernie Franklin while Chino has gotten inspired efforts from Edwin Marquez and goalie Sal Aguilera.

Montclair will try to climb above the .500 mark themselves as they take on Garey High. Frank Garcia has been a hot scorer of late for the Cavaliers while Garey has had trouble getting untracked in league.

Pomona and Webb have nowhere to go but up at this stage, so their match Wednesday should be interesting if not artistic.

Broncos face rough contest at San Diego

SAN DIEGO — Cal Poly basketball coach Don Hogan has reasons to be concerned about the final seven games of the 1973-74 schedule.

His Broncos have lost seven of their last eight games as the season record has dipped to 6-13. One more loss will insure a losing season.

Poly will have it tough here tonight against the University of San Diego. The host Toreros took a 61-55 win over the Broncos two weeks ago in Pomona and have since defeated Washington State of the Pacific-Eight, 77-68, on their home court.

Tipoff tonight is ah 8 p.m.

Things won't get any easier later this week for Poly. The next stop is Whittier College, king of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, on Thursday night.

"Our biggest trouble right now is to not look past this season," Hogan said. "I'm afraid the players might view this as a lost cause and just go through the motions the rest of the way. While we're out of any championship race, we could make things interesting for some of the top teams."

Both Poly and USD are just off games against UC Riverside. The Broncs suffered an 89-71 loss at Riverside Friday night while the Toreros were edged, 92-90, in two overtimes Saturday.

With a 10-9 season record, USD needs a win tonight to keep alive any thoughts of landing a berth in the NCAA College Division playoffs. To have any hope, the Toreros would need a sudden hot streak.

Guard Stan Washington, USD's career point record-holder, leads the Toreros with a 17.8 average followed by forward Robert (Pinky) Smith at 15.0. Smith tallied 31 in the stunning upset over Washington State.

Hogan is happy with his team's offense but is disappointed with the defense. Riverside was able to score several layups against the Broncs.

"Based on our performance, I would say we're in for another toughie," Hogan said, "but we won't be frightened off. We'll show up."

Poly enjoyed a surprising 65-61 win here last year but it will be tough to repeat that assignment.

Palomares takes basketball crown

POMONA — Palomares Junior High clinched the Mt. Baldy League Basketball championship Monday afternoon, running its unbeaten string to nine games with a 65-48 rout of Fremont.

In other action, Emerson nipped Lorbeer, 55-54, and Marshall downed Simons, 55-42.

The teams close out their 1974 hoop action Wednesday

Kevin Sanders added 17 points and 14 caroms, he's averaging 13.3 points per game, while Kevin Johnson tossed in 12 points. Johnson has now scored 63 points in seven games.

Leading Fremont were Ralph Dixon with 16 points and James Loften, who added 10 markers.

Floyd Mixon hit a 20-foot jumper with 40 seconds left to give Emerson its one-point win over Lorbeer.

The 5-11 forward finished the game with 27 points, 17 of them in the fourth quarter, to lead the Eagles back from a 15-point deficit. Brian Donohue and Elwyn Fowlkes each added seven points.

Marshall received double figure performances from LaVell Hunter (18), Joe Madrigal (12) and Thomas DuVall (10) in its win over Simons.

Mike Keys led Simons with 18 points followed by Chris Davis' 10 points.

Borzov won't run in U.S., Canadian meets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Valeriy Borzov, the Soviet Union's double gold medal winner in the sprints at the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, won't run in four indoor track meets in the United States and Canada as had been announced.

Borzov wasn't aboard a plane from Russia which landed at the Los Angeles International AirportMonday. A spokesman for the National AAU said Borzov was left home because of a sore foot.

Three Russian athletes were on the plane, including 1972 800-meter silver medalist Yevgeniy Arzhanov. Also aboard were Yuriy Isakov, a pole vaulter, and Valentin Garrilov, a high jumper.

They will compete in the Los Angeles Times Indoor Games at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., and then go to Toronto, San Diego and New York for meets.

Maurin top playmaker for Walnut

"Marcelo is very important to us, we can't afford to lose him. We have enough height that if something happened to Lance or Kirk we have enough personnel to fill in. We might not do as well but we have replacements with Ken Czarnecki. But since we don't get much scoring from Gary (Case), who's one of our better defensive players, we really rely on Marcelo."

"I think he's probably the best ball handler in the league," concluded. Murray "I do think he's the best guard we've had at Walnut and we had a second string All-CIFer a few years ogo, but Marcelo can do more things with or without the ball."

For Wednesday, Feb. 6

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're not careful, pursuit of pleasure and luxury will carry too high a price tag. Be moderate, particulaly if shopping for something you can't afford.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A volatile domestic issue may arise today between you and your spouse. Nothing will be solved if each doesn't yield a little.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will not respond very favorably to one who tries to force his ideas on you. Keep your anger in check or you'll say too much.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This could be a day of reckoning if you're overdue on some old account. Try to bring financial affairs up-to-date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Gauge your opposition carefully today when pushing personal interests. If resistance is too strong, back off till another time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If the boss thinks he can get away with it he'll strap some extra responsibilities to your back. Have your answers ready.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Aviod the company of a friend with an enlarged ego. He'll really bug you if you have to listen to him brag.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure to share the applause and prestige with one you're involved with regarding a certain achievement. A solo bow will infuriate him.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't make directives more complicated than necessary for someone performing a task for you. Keep ideas easy to follow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Look out for your financial interests today if you're doing something with another. Otherwise, you'll be putting in more than your share.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'd be better off if you waited a day on any type of major agreement you're thinking of making with another.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It will seem today like everyone has something urgent they want you to do for them right away. Don't let 'em upset you.

Your Birthday
February 5

You're going to form some interesting associations this year with people who'll keep you on your toes. Try not to involve yourself with persons who are too overpowering.

The doctor comments

Term 'osteoporosis' means porous bones

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you write some explanation of osteoporosis? I had considerable back pain, and my doctor ordered Xrays. The report doesn't help me understand what my problem is. I'm 67 years old. My doctor was very busy and squeezed my appointment in. That's why I didn't get a full explanation.

Should I do some exercises? Is there any effective medicine besides aspirin?

My doctor gave me Formatrix. When the druggist said it would cost $22, I refused to buy it because he had said that it could have unfavorable side effects. Now my back is improved, without medicine- I said to myself, "For $22 I'll make believe it's psychosomatic."

I do have arthritis in some parts of my body. Is osteopxrosis related to arthritis or just a degeneration of the bones?

DEAR READER — Osteoporosis comes from two words, osteo meaning bones and porosis meaning porous, or simply porous bones. It commonly occurs in women after the menopause and causes the bones to lose calcium and literally dissolve. The vertebrae are a favorite location for the changes, and they can lose their height, fracture or become deformed. That "buffalo hump" or "dowager hump" in the back of many older women is the result of softened or degenerated vertebrae. Other bones are also affected. This is one reason many older people are prone to fractures.

Often the bone changes do not cause pain. When they cause the vertebrae to pinch a spinal nerve from the deformity, then painful back problems occur. The pain can go away even though the bones continue to degenerate. That is important to you. The disease can still progress affecting how well you can expand your ribs and this way affect your ability to breathe deeply. This in turn limits your ability to exercise.

We know that women on a calcium-poor diet are more prone to this problem. Most doctors agree that treatment should include at least a quart of milk a day in your diet, and I recommend fortified skim milk because it contains more calcium, more protein and less fat than whole milk.

Often hormone replacement is important. The Formatrix contains both male and female hormones for the purpose of slowing down the bone degeneration.

Osteoporosis is not the same thing as ordinary arthritis of older years. I think it is very important that you be treated adequately. Your improvement does not mean that the problem is not progressing. You may need some medicine to slow or stop the process and prevent future problems... Exercises are useful but need to be planned on an individual basis, depending on the amount and nature of your problem. Those exercises designed to strengthen the back muscles between the shoulders and help you keep your back straight are particularly important. Don't neglect your problem or it will get worse.

Parakeet just lucky to survive freedom

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Fizz is a parakeet who keeps getting into the most terrible trouble. She has the run of the house and in the last two months she has (1) singed the feathers of her left wing on the gas stove, (2) caught her foot in the draperies and was trapped there for I don't know how long before we found her, (3) actually got outside the door one morning and would have flown off if we hand't shooed her back in and (4) lost three tail feathers in the electric fan. She does love her freedom and I hate the thought of cooping her up. Is there any alternative? —W.G.

Dear W.G.: Lucky for Fizz her freedom — and life — have lasted so long. She'd better trade a carefree (?) life for a longer one — now. A flight cage, properly equipped but not overloaded, will provide restricted but adequate exercise. It will also fence off that hazardous outside world she's already seen too much of.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My mother always told me that crickets were lucky. Well, they're not very lucky to each other. They EAT each other when you put them together. How can I stop this? —K.W.

Dear K.W.: Crickets don't perfer crickets to other food. However, (a) Keep plenty of (other) food available and (b) Don't overcrowd your crickets. Full bellies and elbow room keep crickets compatible.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our neighborhood isn't the way it used to be at all. There is a lot more crime now. We're nervous about it but can't move away because we don't have enough money. The only thing we can think of is to train Biggo, who is part police dog, to be real mean to strangers, even attack them if we tell him to. Is that hard to train a dog to do? (He's friendly by nature.) —C.A.

Dear C.A: An expert trainer could probably do this job if Biggo isn't too much of a creampuff — but it could also ruin his current sunny disposition. Do-it-yourself guard-dog training can create a canine (and human) catastrophy. A genuine expert must train dog and owners thoroughly to minimize at least the risks involved.

Dental contest judged

The Women's Auxiliary to Tri-County Dental Society, Western District, is currently sponsoring a dental health poster contest during National Dental Health Week.

Elementary school children from Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Upland, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and Cucamonga have participated.

Beginning today and continuing through Friday the winning posters will be displayed at the Montclair Plaza.

U.S. Savings Bonds and trophies will be awarded the winners on Friday evening.

Auxiliary members will present the puppet show, "Adam's Apple," following the awards. Mrs. K. W. Madsen, Mrs. Dan Young and Mrs. Richard Peeples are cochairmen for the contest.

Dr. Alan How and Dr. K. W. Madsen will be the poster contest judges.

The puppet show is also being presented at schools in the area during dental health month. Various dental health films are available from the auxiliary upon request, as well as toothbrushes for needy children.

At the auxiliary's recent dental health meeting, nurses from the Pomona Valley school districts were invited to hear Dr. Rodney Muller speak on Tel-Med. Tel-Med is a library of 100 taped messages on various medical and dental subjects sponsored by San Bernardino County Medical Society and Tri-County Dental Society.

Vows are exchanged at church ceremony

In an afternoon ceremony at St. Madeleine Catholic Church, Miss Patty Ann Coil became the bride of Michael Bruce Lambert.

Officiants for the double-ring rites were the Rev. George Wilson and the Rev. Tim Conn.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Coil of Pomona was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lambert of Pomona.

The bride wore an empire gown of silk organza with fluted ruffles on the bodice and skirt and French alencon lace appliques. Lace edged her cathedral-length mantilla veil and she carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Beth Kuhn was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Coil, Susie Coil and Janet Corkill. Charlene Branson was flower girl.

Serving as ring bearer was Nathan Domekies while Don Webster was best man. Ushers were Ray Panci, Ken Clark and Gordon Billingsley.

The newlyweds greeted guests during a reception at the Pomona Elks Club.

After a honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert will reside in San Diego.

Cut your own taxes:

Business expenses: adjust, don't deduct

By RAY DE RANE

Anyone employed as an "outside salesman" occupies a unique position entitling him to preferential treatment under income tax laws.

An outside salesman — one soliciting business away from his employer's place of business — may claim all his ordinary and necessary business expenses as an adjustment to income. This still gives him the option of claiming a 15 per cent standard deduction against his adjusted gross income or of itemizing his remaining deductions.

An employee who is not an outside salesman may claim as an adjustment to income only his transportation lodging and meal expenses. The remaining expenses— such as entertainment, gifts to customers and splitting of commissions may be claimed only when deductions are itemized. If the standard deduction is claimed, these remaining expenses are lost since they are included in his allowable 15 per cent deduction, up to the $2,000 limit.

The outside salesman's adjustments can include all automobile and other travel expenses, entertainment, telephone and telegraph charges, hotel rooms and meals while away from home, laundry, dry cleaning and reasonable tips. With the exception of meals, he can deduct all such expenses even if he is not away from home overnight.

In claiming automobile xpenses any employee has the option of using either one of two methods. In one case, total all operating expenses including depreciation, cost of gas and oil, insurance, parking, tires, license tags, etc. and from the total apply the percentage which represents the portion of your business driving related to your total mileage. The second method permits you to deduct 12 cents a mile for the first 15,000 business miles and nine cents a mile thereafter.

You can get complete details on how to save dollars on your 1973 income tax by following the step-by-step instructions in CUT YOUR OWN TAXES 1974, the book by Roy De Crane that tells all. Send your name, address and zip with check or money order for $1 plus 25 cents for postage and handling to Progress - Bulletin Tax Book, P.O. Box 849, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Allow three weeks for delivery.

School board gets a treat

Music groups plug program

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The Claremont school board was treated to a 1¾-hour music appreciation program Monday night then heard an optimistic report on a coming high school theatrical production.

Don Freuchte, Claremont High drama coach, capped the musical and drama portions of the program by announcing that the high school production of "Mame" in March will be presented at the high school instead of Garrison Theater.

Freuchte reported that if each of the seven performances is sold out, the drama budget of $3,000 could yield a profit of $1,500.

He explained that presenting operettas in the high school gym had been found impractical, and staging them at Garrison Theater was expensive and had cost $850 for rent alone.

He said that all operettas are completely student body financed, and that the 1972-73 budget of $7,500 had a $1,900 deficit, which was made up by different school organizations.

Freuchte noted that togetherness is a necessity in a musicale, but that putting on a Broadway production such as "Mame" in Room 106 does pose a problem. "But we will try to meet the challenge," he added.

He explained that "Mame" will have a cast of 89 and a stage crew of 57.

The program featuring nine performing arts groups from the various district schools didn't start until 8:45 because the board was in executive session until that time.

A handful of parents were treated to Mrs. Georgia Warden's Oakmont students of Orff instruments and recorders playing "The Riddler Song."

Teaching the singing of a new song was demonstrated by Mrs. Mary Boule's Sumner School chorus. A guitar group directed by Mrs. Eileen Jaeger of Mountain View School played eight selections.

La Puerta drama group produced a change of pace with a scene from "The Old Lover's Ghost," and El Roble's drama students illustrated improvisational drama.

"Now the Day is Over" was played by nine trumpet students from Condit School and directed by Joe Moore.

"It Had to be You" was sung by a women's trio at Claremont High, A barbershop quartet from the high school delighted the audience with "Mosquitos" and "Song of Levi" from "The Spanish Cavalier."

Joe Moore narrated a short showing of slides of various music groups throughout the district.

Dr. Margaret Hodder, assistant superintendent, cited the spirit of cooperation among the district staff members in the performing arts.

Senator laments lot of 'double-dippers'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater is a "double dipper." There are a lot of them in the Federal government.

A "double dipper," according to Sid Taylor of the National Taxpayers Union, is an employe of the government who also draws military retirement pay.

What marks Goldwater, a retired Air Force Major General, is that he is not too comfortable accepting the double stipend.

Yet he is not uncomfortable enough to refuse his military pension which totals $546 a month.

In a typically frank and candid letter to Taylor late last year, Goldwater outlined his problem.

He first accepted the retirement pay in 1967 when he was —at least technically —on the unemployment rolls. He was returned to the Senate the following year.

Goldwater says he does not feel reserve officers should get retirement pay unless they serve a full hitch with the regulars and calls the day-for-day credit twice too generous.

But, Goldwater laments, "if I wrote to the Reserve Command and told them I did not want my check anymore, this would never get through the computer.

"What would happen is that my check would come out regularly each month and then, even if I might refuse them, they would be piling up, and some day I would have to take the accumulation and then tremendous taxes would have to be paid," he added.

Goldwater conceded that reservists holding ranks of colonel or up in Congress, the Pentagon and around Washington would probably be doing a lesser job if called up than they do now.

But Goldwater said the law "is pretty clear" that a retired reservist in Congress can accept retirement benefits "and still be legal, even though there is a question of morality about it."

The Arizona Republican suggested to Taylor that he write other Congressional reservists drawing retirement and added "it might do some good if all of us, for example, insisted that no more checks be sent, but I don't think, really, that it's going to amount to anything."

In addition to Goldwater, there are 15 "double dippers" now in Congress, according to the National Taxpayers Union.

Capt. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., Lt. C. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., Col. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., 1st Lt. Joseph P. Vigorito, D-Pa., and Lt. Louis C. Wyman, R-N. H., are drawing disability benefits.

Col. Carl B. Albert, D-Okla., Maj. Gen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., Col. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, Col. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, Capt. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., Capt. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Col. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and Maj. Gen. Strom Thurmond, R-S. C., are drawing retirement.

Rep. William G. Bray, R-Ind., deferred his retirement pay until December, 1972 when he got a lump sum and William F. Nichols, D-Ala., waived his retirement benefits in favor of a VA pension.

The monthly payments range from Teague's $600.87 a month to the $150.56 drawn by Scott.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.
